HIRAM JOHNSON OUTLINES PRINCIPLES DENOUNCING POLITICAL OPPONENTS

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE PLEADS CLEAN POLITICS

Scores Democratic Leader and Declares That He Will Sweep the State of California at the Coming Election

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—Hiram Johnson, Republican candidate for Governor, addressed his largest Southern California meeting tonight. Nearly 2,000 people were in Simpson auditorium when Johnson, before a short speech, was made by A. J. Wallace, candidate for Lieutenant Governor. William D. Stephens, nominee for Congress, and Meyer Lissner, chairman of the Republican state central committee, Russ Avery, county chairman, introduced George Cochran, the meeting chairman.

PLEA FOR EXPOSITION.

Wallace declared that he appeared principally to be seen and demonstrate that his illness had been only slight. In the course of his short talk he made a strong plea for the passage of the Panama-Pacific Exposition bonds. Stephens announced himself as resolutely opposed to Cannonism in the national Congress. Meyer Lissner quoted tables of figures that showed how much Johnson is to win and predicted a Republican majority south of the Tehachas of 25,000 or 30,000 votes.

JOHNSON'S ADDRESS.

Cochran introduced Johnson as "the most active and courageous fighter for the new order of things in politics, not only in California, but in the nation." Johnson said "Eight months ago, seeing in the new direct primary law the dawn of a new era in the government of California, we set out, away up in Siskiyou county, with only a little machine, and my boy to drive it, to preach to the people of California our doctrine of political emancipation from William F. Herrin and the Southern Pacific rail road."

OUTLINES PRINCIPLES.

"No man's individuality or personality of claim for the office of governor on these grounds can stand in the way of the perfecting of the work which we set out to do, but by the grace of God and with your help and the help of all free men of the state, I am going to make this government free on the first day of January next."

"Not all the way were taunted into it did our Democratic friends mention the name of William F. Herrin or the Southern Pacific, and then it came trembling from their lips, not in the strident tones of old. Now you can't blame them for that. They wouldn't induce the feelings of Mr. Herrin or the Southern Pacific because they are too confident, and then they might lose."

"There will be no such machine out."

QUIP AND JEST REIGN AT NILE CLUB JINKS

Performers Poke Fun at Members at All Hailows' Eve Celebration in Wierd Hobgoblin Setting

There was much festivity at the Nile Club last night the occasion being a "Hallowe'en Jinks," in which a large number of members took part, the remainder adding jest and merriment to the scene from the side lines, as it were, the whole affair being one of the most convivial which has been undertaken by the club for some time. Every act was a feature and every feature was a laugh, accompanied by hearty applause. The weird and mysterious setting appropriate for the evening added not a little to the enthusiasm manifested throughout the entertainment of the elaborate program.

According to the advance notice sent out several days previous to the event, "Mutt and Jeff" actually were "sent for the moment" and Gaby Liss showed

Johnson Vitriolic Denouncing foe

Hiram W. Johnson, Republican candidate for Governor during his tour of the state which is rapidly coming to a close in view of the election not far off, has not minced words in his denunciation of Theodore A. Bell, Democratic candidate for the same office. In charge and counter-charge both have been carrying on a vigorous campaign, and the Republican nominee has lost no opportunity to take advantage of any opening in the wall of oratorical defense which the Democratic candidate has thrown about him in defense of the principles which he represents.

In a flaying which has sifted the issues from the chaff with which they entered the political mill, he has put his propositions directly before the people from one of the state to the other.

FORAKER AGREES TO RESUME TOUR

Former Ohio Senator Accedes to Request of Veterans That He Take Stump.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 29.—Former Senator F. B. Foraker received from the State Committee today an urgent request that he resume speaking for the Republican State ticket. The request states that Foraker's old friends, especially among the civil war veterans, were very anxious that he again take the stump.

Senator Foraker replied that under the circumstances he would comply with their request and would fill the demanding duties of his original speaking engagements.

Foraker withdrew from the stump tour a few days ago. It will be recalled, after receiving a communication from the committee suggesting that he refrain from expressing views on the stump that might antagonize other Republican leaders.

CLERK RISES TO PRESIDENT. PHILADELPHIA.—The directors of the Corn Exchange National bank elected Charles S. Calvert to be president to succeed Benjamin Githers, deceased. Twenty years ago Mr. Calvert went to the bank as a clerk. In 1889 he became assistant cashier, in 1900 cashier, and in 1908 president and vice-president. He is one of the youngest bank presidents in Philadelphia.

Feline Morphine Fiend Is Passenger on Atlantic Liner

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The most notable passenger of the steamship City of Savannah, which arrived today, was a cat from Savannah which the doctors had pronounced a dope fiend, with an appetite for morphine as its special diet. The cat's name is Joe Brown, after Georgia's governor.

CAT A MORPHINE FIEND.

For Governor Brown's sake it must be explained right here that the cat got the name long before it became a morphine fiend. "Tart matter" cleared away, the tale is that "Joe Brown," meaning the cat, will be treated by New York's ablest veterinary surgeons, and if there is such a thing as a cure, that cat will get it.

The cat came in care of E. P. Grober, an assistant to Druggist H. Eaton, owner of the cat and a member of the Savannah Automobile Club. It took two tries to get Joe Brown to leave Savannah. The first voyage was started on the City of Montgomery, but Joe Brown would have none of it and leaped aboard.

CAT SOUGHT MORPHINE.

The crew thought it was a clear case of suicide and intended to report to the coroner, but "Joe Brown" was after morphine. The cat swam ashore and Druggist Heaton found his pet sitting at a morphine jar in his store. He hadn't put the jar into hiding as usual because he thought Joe Brown was miles away.

SALE OF STAMPS.

It is reported that the sale of the stamps helps the county city and state officials in prohibiting violations of the state law. The collector of the internal revenue in each district in the United States is required to post the names of stamp purchasers in a public place. These notices are generally posted in the corridors of a public building or in the post office. From the list the state revenue officer can tell who is violating the law and who is not.

Harriman's Widow Gives Great Park to New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—With cannon thundering a national salute and the State flags of New York and New Jersey fluttering to twin mastheads beside Old Glory, the magnificent gift of Mrs. E. H. Harriman to the Interstate Park Commission was impressively celebrated this afternoon. The gift consists of 10,000 acres of land to extend the area of the great park and the plans, amounting to $1,000,000 in money to help carry out the plans.

At the same time the Bear Mountain prison site was transferred by the State of New York to the commission and the scene of the ceremonies was on this tract, near Newburgh.

Strikers Raise Embargo When Coffin Is Exposed

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A pathetic incident of the strike against the express companies came to light today when John Oleason of 2798 Eighth avenue, was allowed by the strikers to take away from the Grand Central station an express package for which he had been waiting for two days.

It was a casket containing the body of his son, a sailor in the United States navy, who died Tuesday in the naval hospital at Newport. The body was transferred to Oleason upon explaining the circumstances, was placed through the pickets of the strikers with his aid.

LAW IS DRY, BUT PEOPLE ARE 'DAMP'

Figures Show Southern States Consume Large Quantities of Liquor.

TAX COLLECTORS MAKE ANNUAL REPORT

The Government Revenue On Spirituous Liquors Yields Large Sums Yearly.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—"The law in Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and a part of South Carolina may be dry, just as dry as Blacks one is to the student, but the dry belt is limited to the law and the people are wet, wet as the mountain dew of old Kentucky," according to a statement of the collectors made to their chiefs in Washington.

These collectors tell not only of "booze" being made, but of the sale both in large and small quantities.

FILES ANNUAL REPORT.

In another month Commissioner of Internal Revenue Cabell will make public his annual report in which he will give forth figures for the year just closed. A major portion of the report will be devoted to these states, showing the number of special tax stamps which have been sold in the last year along with the amount yielded therefrom. In Alabama, the retail stamp cost 25 cents, and the wholesale $1.00. It is estimated that in Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina, a small part of the sale of these special tax stamps amount to approximately $5,000,000 for the fiscal year which ended June 30 last.

ALABAMA IN LEAD.

Alabama leads in the number of stamps purchased. The sale of retail stamps amounted to approximately $31,000, and the combined sale of the retail and wholesale stamps $38,552. Georgia comes next with a combined sale of $30,568 of stamps, and of this amount only $25,000 was received for wholesale stamps.

South Carolina will show a combined sale of about $30,800 worth of stamps. Like North Carolina, most of the stamps were purchased by retailers. In this case, however, the county dispensary was the heaviest buyer and the druggist next.

The revenue from the sale of these stamps is being used to pay the interest on the state debt. They point out that nothing can be done to remedy the matter. Commissioner Cabell refers to the complaining prohibitionists to the constitution, which provides for the collection of a uniform tax.

REPUBLICAN SUPPORT.

The tide of Republican support is setting strongly in his favor throughout the southland concur in the announcements by James H. Boyd, of San Bernardino, who addressed the speakers with the public declaration that Bell and Spellacy would receive 40 per cent of the Republican vote of San Bernardino. Boyd, who took the nomination around the kite-shaped tract for several hundred miles through this county was one of the most successful days spent by the candidates throughout the campaign. He was in the audience, both in point of numbers addressed and the applause and general enthusiasm displayed by the people.

STOP AT RIVERSIDE.

While the principal meeting was held here tonight, a stop at an hour and a half at Riverside, where an open air meeting was held at Eighth and Orange streets, at which it is estimated that 1500 men crowded about the speakers. The meeting was introduced by the speakers with the public declaration that Bell and Spellacy would receive 40 per cent of the Republican vote of San Bernardino. Boyd, who took the nomination around the kite-shaped tract for several hundred miles through this county was one of the most successful days spent by the candidates throughout the campaign. He was in the audience, both in point of numbers addressed and the applause and general enthusiasm displayed by the people.

BELL SCORES JOHNSON.

At one point of his address at Riverside he said of Johnson: "My opponent is a good criminal lawyer by birth, training and temperament and by the habits of a lifetime he is well fitted for that work. The habit has become so fixed that he is now conducting his campaign for the Governorship in the same manner that he would conduct a criminal case. If he were elected Governor of this state he will not be able to change his nature. He has not been trained to public life, and has not received that experience for putting into effect those policies that concern our entire people."

CHALLENGES JOHNSON.

"We have waited in vain for my opponent to declare what his attitude will be toward the public institutions of California. I challenge him to pledge himself the removal of the insane from the penal system. It is apparent that Boss Lissner does not intend to permit these institutions to get out of the political game, if Mr. Johnson is elected, for they will have to rely upon the patronage of these places to perpetuate their faction in the Republican party. This means that the present gross waste and extravagance in our expenditures will continue. No one can dispute the fact that until our public institutions are placed on a non-political basis there cannot be retrenchment or economy in the disbursements of your public funds."

PLAYS HIS OPPONENT.

"I have just read the address delivered by my opponent in San Bernardino last night, and it confirms the information received by me. The managers have insisted on blue-penning his speech. His favorite word 'kick,' has disappeared, and he promises to 'drive' Herrin and others out of politics. He also omitted the usual

BELL FLAYS JOHNSON IN VITRIOLIC ADDRESSES BEFORE BIG AUDIENCES

Democratic Leader Flays His Opponent

Theodore A. Bell, Democratic candidate for Governor, flayed Hiram Johnson in addresses delivered before big gatherings of voters during his trip through the country yesterday. Bell asked many pertinent questions of Johnson, and demanded of the Republican candidate a reply to them before the election. Speaking of his opponent, Bell said: "My opponent is a good criminal lawyer by birth, training and temperament and by the habits of a lifetime he is well fitted for that work. The habit has become so fixed that he is now conducting his campaign for the Governorship in the same manner that he would conduct a criminal case. If he were elected Governor of this State he would not be able to change his nature. He has not been trained to public life, and has not received that experience for putting into effect those policies that concern our entire people."

COMPLIMENTARY TERMS.

"unconvicted felons," etc., from his speech. This supports my contention that my opponent's campaign is simply one of expediency, a no count conducted upon a high plane. If it becomes expedient, I presume that their language will grow increasingly more courteous and respectful toward Herrin. I am sure that a few months ago to get Bell to run for Governor on the Democratic ticket, so that Johnson, Earle, R. Well, Older and all the other insurgent leaders might have a chance to get elected, and along the same line it seems to have become expedient to destroy Bell, because he stands in their way."

BIG CROWD PRESENT.

The meeting here tonight was held at Spurgeon's Hall, which was packed to its fullest capacity. The candidates were met by the Bell and Spellacy Marching Club, with the Santa Ana brass band, a procession was formed and the march was made to the center of the hall. The line of march was illuminated with red fire and the shooting of Roman candles and the flaming of torches. A tremendous cheering and shouting greeted the candidates as they entered the hall. The candidates were met by a large crowd of people, and the meeting was a great success.

ASKS QUESTIONS.

"Has he got one friend in this audience? Stop—I have two minutes; I will give you a minute and a half to tell me one single policy that Hiram Johnson stands for in kicking Herrin out of the politics of California. I am waiting for an answer. A lot of you are going to vote for him. Answer that. Not a single one? Does he tell the parents of the State that he will protect them from the text-book monopoly? No. Does he tell the taxpayers that he will get rid of the waste and extravagance and conduct his administration economically? No. Not a single thing except to kick Herrin out and now to kick Bell out."

MAKES BRIEF ADDRESS.

At Azusa 200 persons had gathered to greet the candidates. Bell in a brief address said: "When I was in Congress I was able to do some service to the people of the citrus belt when you petitioned Congress for an Interstate Commerce Commission to fix a more equitable rate of freight. I was able to do only one of eight Congressmen to take your memorials and petitions into the floor of Congress and make a fight for what the shippers of this state were entitled to. This record of mine is open to friend and foe alike to disclose that in all of my public career I have been found fighting the battle of the people and against special interests."

GOES AFTER A SUPERVISOR.

San Dimas followed the lead of its sister town of Azusa and a crowd of citizens gave the Bell and Spellacy special a noisy welcome. Bell in addressing the people said in part: "I am not going to destroy any railroads, nor burn up any freight sheds, or tear up any rails. All I want is that the railroads, as well as all other corporations, should be made to pay a fair price for the use of the public highways. It is the corrupt political influences exerted by them that I intend to destroy, not their physical properties. We want railroads and we want to improve the material progress of our native state and if elected Governor shall do all in my power to help in her advancement."

ONLY ONE TUNE.

"My political opponent," said Bell in his speech, "has only one tune in his repertoire that is 'Kick Herrin out of office' which he has supplemented by saying 'Kick Herrin and Bell out of the State.' I don't believe that the far-famed people of California are going to help include me in the same category with that great arch-enemy of the people. He however has no word of hope or encouragement to the great mass of the people."

BIG CROWD AT RIVERSIDE.

San Bernardino was reached just at the noon hour and an hour was allowed for the time in which to make speeches and eat lunch. A crowd of 300, nearly all men, was at the station. In the course of his remarks Bell said: "In years ago when we were making every possible sacrifice, using every ounce of force, and appealing to every good citizen of this State to come to the front and assist us in the removal of the corrupt influences of California, my Republican opponent did not approve of our appeal."

DISCUSSION OVER EXPENSE.

Foreman Max Goldman and Assistant Attorney E. A. Lane had a discussion over the question of the expense of investigating San Mateo graft. Lane explained that the information now in the possession of the district attorney's office convinced the authorities that the crime had been committed in San Francisco, even though the subject of the offense was not in San Mateo county. Goldman accepted the explanation.

Highlanders gave the candidates a fine reception. From every direction the people came out of the orange groves, surrounding the town, and liberally applauded the speeches and indicated that they were in full accord with the sentiments expressed. The prediction was publicly made by J. Boyd, that throughout San Bernardino county where he lived, that Bell and Spellacy will get 40 per cent of the Republican vote in San Bernardino county. In the course of his remarks, Bell thundered: "You men down there with the Joyous buttons, if there are any around here, step out and tell me one single policy that Mr. Johnson stands for at the present time."

Other Candidates Speak for the Ticket and Johnson; Legislature and Its Work Are Freely Praised

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.—At old clay hall tonight Jack Dillon of Indianapolis bested Billy Berger of this city in a six-round go. The fight was finished in spite of the fact that just previously an accident happened whereby one section of the circus seats collapsed and about twenty of the occupants were hurt.

Assemblyman Young announced at the close of the speech-making that the Johnson-Wallace Club of Berkeley was the banner organization of its kind in the State, having secured a membership of 1150. He declared that the club would yet enroll 1500 names and urged non-members to join by signing the blanks distributed throughout the hall. The audience then mingled during a social hour and partook of refreshments provided by the committee.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Fifty-four second-grade pupils at the Lyman T. Triunbull public school, none over 7 years old, will be charged with the "third degree" today by the police.

One of these fifty-four children, it is charged, is a thief and the fifty-three of them know the identity of the culprit. The two boys have persistently refused to divulge the name.

The Mosswood Eagles clashed with the Berkeley Stars in a game of American football yesterday afternoon on the St. Mary's field. Both teams struggled hard to win and many spectacular plays were made. Monte May, St. Mary's and Mosswood played a fast game and it was through their playing that the Berkeley team won.

Raynor Gimbal starred for the Mosswood team by his fast playing. Carey and Greenman also played a good game for Mosswood.

Just before the close of the second half Berkeley rumbled the ball and Greenman, catching it up scored a touchdown. The goal was kicked by Mosswood a minute later. The Berkeley Stars lead the Berkeley League at present and next Saturday will play the Bushrod team. The score of the game was 13 to 11 in favor of Berkeley.

NOTED MUSICIAN TO DIRECT CONSERVATORY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Leandro Campagna has been named as artistic director of the California Conservatory of Music. He has won recognition and distinction in many lines but is probably best known as a violin virtuoso, quartet player and symphony and operatic conductor. As a teacher of violin and singing he has been successful and has held the best positions in two of the leading conservatories of this country, the New England Conservatory, Boston, and the Cincinnati College of Music. He is also well known as a composer of English songs, and a writer of violin text books.

Campagna's first public appearance under conservatory auspices will be as the director of an orchestra concert to be followed by a chamber music concert in which he will be associated with George Kruger, dean of the faculty and head of the piano department of the conservatory.

Oakland Lodge to Attend Orpheum Tomorrow Night

A. E. ORTON, president of Albion Lodge, Sons of St. George, who is assisting in arranging a theater party to be given by that lodge tomorrow evening.

Albion Lodge, Sons of St. George, have completed arrangements for a theater party to be given tomorrow evening at the Orpheum theater, where the officers of the lodge, the members and their friends will assemble to enjoy the performance.

The Orpheum management has promised to display some special features in addition to the regular program on that occasion.

The lodge will award prizes to the members who remit the largest sum for tickets. Albion Lodge is one of the most progressive orders of the Sons of St. George in Alameda county, and is becoming a powerful factor in the fraternal organizations of this city.

A. E. Orton, president of the lodge, has charge of the affair, which, it is predicted, will be a success.

PROVES SIX CAN BE FED FOR $1.00

Teacher in Domestic Science
Gives Recipes to Combat
High Cost of Living.

According to the latest economic calculation of Miss M. P. Clark, teacher of domestic science in the Manual Training and Commercial high school, and the students of her class, six persons can be fed with generous portions for $1. Miss Clark states that the dinners planned on the $1 basis for six do not allow for leftovers, but the dishes are liberal. The prices are based on the retail market and the present season.

The recipes call for level measures and one cup means a standard half pint, tablespoon and teaspoon measures are level. Uniform and best results in these recipes depend upon correct measuring. A few recipes should be followed exactly the first time, then changes can be made intelligently afterwards.

ONE DOLLAR FOR SIX.

The menu arranged by Miss Clark for the $1 meal for six is computed as follows:

Price	Cost.
Rice-tomato soup	$.10
Mutton stew	.45
Baked cream squash	.10
Bread and butter	.12
Apple dumplings	.15
Lemon sauce	.03
Coffee	.03
	$1.00

The girls who are studying domestic science are experimenting with the different food ingredients and the measurements by which they can feed half a dozen people for $1.00.

RISE-TOMATO SOUP.

One and one-half quarts soup stock, one-quart cup of rice washed, one pint stewed and strained tomatoes, one sliced onion cut fine, eight pepper corns, bit of bay leaf, one stalk celery cut fine, one tablespoon butter, two tablespoonsful flour or starch or corn meal. Cook the rice in soup stock until soft. Cook tomatoes, onion, celery, pepper corns and bay leaf until vegetables are soft, then run the tomato mixture through a sieve. Add to the soup stock and thicken with flour rubbed to a smooth paste. Let the soup boil a few minutes to thoroughly cook the flour and remove the soup being clear. Add the butter just before serving.

MUTTON STEW.

Three pounds mutton from shoulder, six small French carrots, six small onions, one turnip cut in slices, eight small potatoes, two tablespoonsful salt, one-third teaspoonful white pepper, one-third cup flour. Clean mutton thoroughly and cut in three-inch cubes. Cover with boiling water and simmer two and one-half hours. Pare the vegetables leaving carrots, onions and potatoes whole. Twenty-five minutes before meat is done add the carrots, turnips and onions and season. Cook the potatoes separately and add just before serving. Thicken with flour rubbed to a thin, smooth paste with cold water. Serve with baked dumplings, if desired.

BAKED CREAM SQUASH.

Three small cream squash, one tablespoonful butter, salt, pepper. Clean squash, cut in halves and remove seeds. Sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper, dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven thirty or forty minutes.

APPLE DUMPLINGS.

Six small quick-cooking apples, one cup sugar, one teaspoonful cinnamon, two cups sifted flour, four tablespoonsful baking powder, four tablespoonsful sugar, one teaspoonful salt, four tablespoonsful lard or butter, three-quarters cup of milk or water. Core and pare the apples. Make a biscuit dough of the last six ingredients, roll thin, cut in six-inch squares. Place an apple in each square, fill core with cinnamon and sugar and fold corners of dough to lap over nearly three minutes. Serve with thin cream or lemon sauce.

CARD PARTY FOR BENEFIT OF WAIFS

Society Women Plan Affair in Aid of Orphans Whose Home Was Burned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Responding to the appeal of the Little children of the Mount Saint Joseph orphanage, who home was burned down recently, the women of the parliamentary section of California Club plan to entertain at a card party at the clubhouse at 1750 Clay street next Thursday afternoon, to which they have invited hundreds of their friends.

Such enthusiasm has been created for the affair that already more than 300 women have accepted invitations to help, many prominent society women choosing this as a method for extending their hospitality to their friends. A score or more of valuable prizes have been donated and every expense incidental to the undertaking has been paid for by private contributors, leaving the receipt clear gain.

The patronesses of the card party are Mesdames Joseph M. Driscoll, Mary A. Tobin, Alexander Loughborough, Ella F. Murray, C. F. de Hurstel, and William Hummel. The officers of the parliamentary section, assisted by Mrs. Davis Loderbach, Mrs. Irene Croude, Mrs. Thomas Hickey, Miss Mary Fairbrother, Miss Tessa Semple, Miss Patch and Miss Caribel David, will receive the guests. Two score pretty society ladies will assist in keeping the scores.

LONG HIGHWAY WILL BE BUILT

Road From British Columbia to Vancouver Planned
By Commission.

SEATTLE, Oct. 29.—The State Highway Commission is working on plans for the construction of a north and south highway extending across the State from British Columbia, on the north, to Vancouver, Wash., on the south. Commissioner H. L. Bowlby, who was in Seattle yesterday, told of the commission's plan.

for several months in the location of a through road, and work up it has already begun," said Bowlby. "As now planned, this road will run from the British Columbia line through Bellingham, Mount Vernon, Everett, Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Centralia, Chehalis, Keno and Kalama to Vancouver, a distance of 275 miles. The committee will build this year three of the seven miles of the proposed road from Ravenna Park to Bethel, complete the four miles of road between Kirkland and Redmond and the twenty-four miles of road from Orilla to Tacoma. The latter is an extension of the twelve mile road from Seattle.

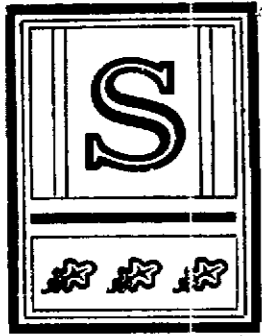

SERVICE AT CYPRESS LAWN. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The All Saints' Day service in the chapel at Cypress Lawn cemetery will be held next Tuesday at 11 o'clock. Dean Graham will conduct the service and make the address. One hour should be allowed for the trip by electric car.

Escaped Convict Is Captured by Indians

SPOKANE, Oct. 29.—Frank Anderson, a burglar who escaped from the penitentiary road gang a week ago, was captured last night on the Spokane Indian reservation by Indians. The fugitive was recognized by Indians when he came to camp and asked for food. He was invited into one of the huts. When the Indians called him by name he jumped to his feet and attempted to escape. They leaped upon him and pinned Anderson to the ground, where he was severely bound. He is being held to await the arrival of the police agents.

BENEFIT FOR ORPHANS. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—A meeting of women interested in promoting the benefit that is to be given next Friday evening in aid of Mount St. Joseph's orphanage will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Knights of the B. B. Branch hall, 1123 Mission street. All women wishing to help are invited by the sisters to be present.

CALIFORNIA, As Ever, Is the Land of Great Opportunity

SAF FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Every day something comes up to show that California is still the land of opportunity, and at the same time it is shown that we are slow to take advantage of our chances for fortune. It is the outsiders who come in, look over the ground, make their investments and reap their rich rewards.

"This is my fifteenth winter in California," said a man with a cough at one of the hotels. "Each fall I come out here, look around a little, buy a piece of property and then set in to enjoy myself. Before I go away in the spring I sell my piece of property, and every time I make enough money to pay all my expenses for my winter outing and have something of profit left. My plan never has failed yet."

In a larger sense a foremost banker said to me the other day:

"Across the river from Sacramento is the Rancho del Paso, or Huggin ranch, or Norris grant, as it is differently called. Some St. Paul and Minneapolis people bought it last year. Already they have in sight a cool million dollars profit on their deal. There was the chance, open to all of us for the last six or seven years, and we didn't have ginger enough to take advantage of it. I'm afraid we are too slow."

Even Working the Duck Limit

But one of the strangest propositions I have yet heard in the matter of investments was broached in a group of sportsmen on Montgomery street. They seemed to have secured some inside information and to know what they were talking about, and they agreed that even the wild duck was being made to play a part in a big financial deal. This was the spokesman's tale:

"A determined effort is being made to still further cut down the limit of a bag of ducks and to drive wild fowl from the market. All that is part of a financial conspiracy. It came out of the fact that the men concerned in the Bolsa Chica preserves in Los Angeles made a wad of money out of the property."

"At once some Napoleons of finance got the idea that it would be a fine thing to speculate in duck preserves. They evolved a scheme to have the duck limit so reduced that the preserves would be comparatively worthless to sportsmen. If a man has to expend $10 to $50 to go out and kill half a dozen birds, he isn't going to go hunting much, and the value of preserves will drop as if there was a sink in the marsh. Then along will come the speculators and buy the properties. Then they'll get the limit increased and sell the preserves at a fine profit, or reclaim them and make their deal that way. Just watch what will be tried this winter at Sacramento."

Where is That Wandering Mandate

It is a long time now since the Populists began educating the people up to the initiative, the referendum and the recall. They struggled hard, and managed to get the reputation of being long-haired cranks.

But after a time along came the Bryan Democrats, and they stealthily filched from those Populists the initiative, the referendum and the recall. They were considered radicals for doing so, but the ideas spread. And now the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republicans have taken up the same doctrines, and they are being preached from one end of the land to the other.

But what has become of the "imperative mandate?" That was one of the most treasured doctrines of the Populists. It used to fill the mouths of their orators with fire, resonant sound. It must have meant something very grand or it would not have sounded so fine. It seemed to have an even better chance for life than the initiative and referendum.

Now, however, no one hears of the imperative mandate. No one even asks, where is my wandering boy tonight. It has been left to roam the bleak political mountains, remote, unfriendly melancholy, slow. Even Thomas N. Cate, once a Populist of Populists, can give no account of its whereabouts. Somebody ought to offer a reward to the finder of the long-lost imperative mandate, and then the next insurgent movement can take it warmly to its bosom.

The Money Wasn't for Bell

You may remember that I commented a week or two ago on the fact that James D. Phelan had not shown himself in the present campaign to work for Theodore Bell. His absence has been more and more noted as the leaders of the "great unwashed" get together and count noses. As Phelan has long been an aspirant for United States Senator, and as the Democrats think they have this year the best chance they have had in two decades of capturing the Legislature, it really seems singular that Jimmy is not lifting his voice on the hustings.

Suddenly this week, Chairmen De Witt and Van Wyck had a great thrill of joy. Their eyes lighted up.

THE KNAVE

PHELAN
Contributed, but It Was Not for Bell

A hope came over them. A check had arrived from Phelan—a check to help along the campaign.

At once word was sent to the newspapers that Phelan had at last been heard from and that he had jumped in to aid in the election of Bell. The political writers arranged to make a good story with top heads. But suddenly the telephones rang and from Democratic headquarters came a mournful sound:

"Don't make a story of that Phelan contribution."

"Why not?" was the natural inquiry.

"Well, the information wasn't correct."

"Didn't Phelan send a check?"

"Yes, but it wasn't for Bell. It was only to aid Judge Coffey."

One of the "Long Hairs"

The Duncan outfit, with their Grecian robes and their uncut hair, weird, unhandsome and absurd, have caught the eye during the week. A clubman saw one of the company pass late at night, at once went to his room, hit up the bromides and sent for a doctor. He was much relieved the next morning when he saw a picture of one of the creatures in his paper.

"I thought I had a new form of the willies," he said in explaining his alarm.

Dave Nagle was standing talking with Congressman Julius Kahn when Duncan passed their way. The little fighting man looked after the queer figure a long time. On his face was a look of satisfied surprise. Kahn inquired what he was thinking of.

"Well, I swear!" exclaimed Nagle. "For years and years I've heard you politicians talking about the long hairs and their influence. But I never saw one of the darned things until now. I'll bet that one's from Berkeley."

His Lonely and Neglected Grave

Down in the cemetery at Monterey—the cemetery by the lone lagoon, with the big oaks all hung with funeral moss—is the grave of Charles Warren Stoddard, author, scholar, poet, clubman, teacher. The once famous author of "South Sea Idylls" has his resting place marked by a plain head-board, and the grass is tangled upon the mound.

In the Bohemian Club is some talk of fixing a fitting monument over that grave and having the place cared for, as Stoddard was one of the earliest members of the club's golden days—a contributor to many jinks; a man who helped make the club's wide fame. Some years ago the members erected a stone over the grave of Jules Tavernier in Honolulu, and the Dan O'Connell bench in Sausalito—a sight shown to all visitors—was another of the club's tributes to its brilliant men.

Stoddard was a singular man with strange ideas on many things. He was a firm believer in celibacy, and one of his cynicisms on the subject of marriage has gone the rounds of the world. He said, quoting from the Holy Book:

"Of course there is in heaven no marrying or giving in marriage, for if there were there would be hell to pay."

Greatest of All the Mizners

In that singularly brilliant family, the Mizners of Benicia, the youngest son among the six sons of Anak, Wilson Mizner, seemed ever destined to get into the papers as the hero of some escapade. It came to be rather accepted that he was a black sheep in an eminent family, and people were inclined to let it go at that.

Those who knew him, however, knowing that he was one of the most brilliant and amusing conversationalists in all the country, were more inclined to let his escapades go as the mere sowing of an unusually large crop of wild oats, and to predict a future for him if he ever "settled."

Well, it seems he has come into his own. Recently he has turned to play writing, and his most recent venture, with Paul Armstrong as collaborator, has proved an instant success. It is called "The Deep Purple," and was first "tried on the dog" in Rochester, where the critics gave it great praise. Then it was taken to Chicago, where Ashton Stevens—our own Ashton, now "doing dramatic" on the Chicago Examiner—gave it the very highest send-off, and where all the other critics were equally fulsome.

"It's the best thing on the stage in the East or West," said Billy O'Connor, who saw it in Chicago. "I went to see it with Billy Pinkerton and we both agreed it was a huge success. It is full of Wilson Mizner's bright lines and sounds just as he talks when he is at his best. I think it will make him both fame and fortune, and he seems destined to become the most famous of the Mizners after all."

Inside Tips On the Campaign

In the political gossip current at the end of the week just closed there was a wide divergence of opinion in respect to the outcome of the State election to be held on Tuesday week. So great was the variety of prediction that a man could get almost anything he wished, no matter to what political party faith or faction he is allied.

From the south came the report that Los Angeles is all torn up over its local fight, which has had its influence on the State canvass. The Lincoln-Roosevelt Leaguers are fighting the local ticket and Earl of the Express, who is among the leaders of the southern insurgents, is supporting a Democrat for district attorney, as against the Republican nominated at the primary.

To add to the confusion, the Times, Herald and Examiner newspapers are supporting Bell for Governor. These conditions make all efforts in the line of promoting a straight Republican ticket in that section of no avail and matters political in Los Angeles are so muddled up, according to reports from that part of the State, that no surprise would result should the county return a Democrat or two to the State Legislature.

San Diego, which gave Gillett a majority of about 1200 four years ago, is another of the southern counties where politics is reported to be very much mixed. The adherents of Bell claim it for that gubernatorial candidate and Johnson's followers are not very vigorously disputing the claim. In the political mix-up reported from San Diego A. G. Spalding, Republican candidate for United States Senator, and Colonel Collier, as well as their political followers, are reported to be out for Bell, as is also the San Diego Union, which was such an enthusiastic supporter of Curry in the primary canvass.

Orange, which gave Gillett about 900 majority, is all shuffled up and it is claimed will materially reduce its Republican lead, if not go over into the Democratic column next November. Reports from San Bernardino are not encouraging to the managers at Republican headquarters in this city.

Up north the mountain counties are reported to be in revolt, and wherever there are timber, mining and grazing interests the Bell candidacy appears to be in the ascendant. Even that stalwart Republican county, Humboldt, which gave Gillett over 1200 majority, is in the sulks. This was brought about by a recent visit paid to that county by Chester Rowell and Frank R. Devlin, leaders of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League. The pair in addressing meetings twanged the same string upon which Hiram Johnson is making his campaign, assailing railroads and allied interests.

This was not a popular political note in Humboldt, as the citizens of that section of the State have not only petitioned the Southern Pacific to build extensions into that territory, but have tendered a bonus and rights of way as inducements for railway construction in that county.

This discordant note so jarred upon the citizens of Humboldt that many of them, after hearing Rowell and Devlin, announced their purpose to vote for Bell.

Charles P. Cullen, the representative of the league in Humboldt, after attending some of these meetings declined to be present at any more of them, explaining that the temper of the people was such that he did not deem it expedient to do so.

The announcement that Secretary of State Charles E. Curry will devote a week or ten days to the Johnson canvass in San Francisco, and that he will preside over the concluding mass meeting for that candidate is accompanied by the report that the "Big Five" have at last conceded that Curry's assistance is essential to their success in this campaign and that they have come to terms.

Curry's friends and supporters in the recent primary campaign are outspoken in this relation and state that Curry will be appointed harbor commissioner to succeed President W. V. Stafford of that board in the event of the election of Hiram Johnson. This appointment, it is believed in political circles, will be but a sort of interim berth, as Curry aspires to the office of mayor of San Francisco and will contest for that office next fall.

While Curry, as the primary showed, has a very large following in San Francisco, doubts have been expressed as to his ability to transfer their votes to another candidate for Governor. Curry's political intimates express regret that he has sought to line up his political supporters at the primary for Johnson, and predict that he will do himself more harm than he will Johnson good.

Curry's political associates relate that he has repeatedly been wigwagged signals of distress by the "Big Five" and the Secretary of State finally consented to put in the remaining time of the campaign in San Francisco working for the candidates of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League.

The pipe-laying by members of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League in this city for municipal office next year is becoming both interesting and amusing. These contests are most noticeable in the efforts to secure control of the county committee and get that body in shape for the next fight for the city offices and accompanying patronage spoils.

Fred G. Sanborn, the law book man and member of the Oliver grand jury, was made chairman of the local governing body, with a view to putting him into the fight for mayor next year.

Investigating a Grand Juror

San Francisco, as have other cities of this country, has been the seat of many investigations and inquiries during the past four years, but at the present time there is being conducted here an inquiry that is novel even among the many curious investigations had before.

It is a case of a grand jury investigating some of its own members, and report has it that the majority of the local inquisition has threatened to indict one of its own number. The latest amendment to the report is that the accused, or suspected member, has been warned not to come near the grand jury room, again, under penalty of a true bill being returned against him.

The offense has to do with a charge of the member having used his office of inquisitor to promote the sale of a line of wet merchandise which his associates on the jury have deeply resented.

Business and Politics

The faculty of attempting to forecast an election by the attendance at the mass meetings held for the contending candidates has been well illustrated in this campaign.

Many of the cities and towns of this State are extremely wideawake. In the visits of candidates they saw an opportunity to attract crowds of other visitors to their towns and thus improve business and boom the section generally. For this reason word was sent out for all citizens to attend the meetings of candidates of the different parties and give them all a large assemblage and good send-off in the interest of the town as well as tending to attract visitors from the surrounding country.

One lively town in the San Joaquin valley collected from its business men and citizens generally a fund for promoting mass meetings, and which was ordered distributed in its expenditure equally between the two political parties.

In furtherance of this idea, and with a true spirit of economy and thrift, the committee in charge caused to be painted a number of banners and transparencies that could be used for the candidates of both parties, as they bore the familiar campaign devices, "Our next Governor," "The people's choice," "Down with the trusts," "Equal rights for all."

This fine stock of campaign sentiments was used for both Johnson and Bell when they visited the town, and was much appreciated by the two candidates.

Kahn's Queer Position

A condition, that might be called politics, and which is not greatly to the credit of the citizenship of San Francisco, exists in relation to the candidacy and canvass of Julius Kahn for return to Congress from the Fourth district. Kahn introduced the bill in the House of Representatives making San Francisco the city for the holding of the Pacific-Panama International Exposition.

The Representative who introduced a similar bill making New Orleans the favored exposition city was unanimously nominated for return from his district without an opposing candidate. In other words, the New Orleans Representative is given a walkover by his constituents as a reward, or consideration, for his services which enables him to devote his time to assisting in the canvasses of other Congressmen favorable to the Southern city.

Julius Kahn, to the contrary, finds himself detained here by a campaign which, while he will probably be elected, requires his attention, an opponent having been named by the Democrats and endorsed by the Good Government League, which is an inner circle of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, and which organizations are bending their energies to defeat Kahn and to that extent deprive San Francisco of the coveted exposition.

The conditions are such that Kahn must remain in San Francisco to protect his own canvass instead of being in the East aiding Congressmen favoring San Francisco's exposition aspirations, and thus securing more votes for this city. A stranger to the San Francisco temperament might expect to find the citizens piling up in arms at this situation, but I have not heard it as much as unfavorably commented upon.

In some respects San Francisco is indeed a remarkable incorporated aggregation.

Return of James O'Neill

The return of James O'Neill, the only Monte Cristo of the stage, to the scene of his early triumphs recalls the time when O'Neill was the leading man and Jeffries Lewis the leading lady of the stock company that long delighted audiences at the old Baldwin theater at Powell and Market streets, and which went up in the flame and smoke at the time the hotel of the same name was destroyed.

In those days O'Neill was very much of a night owl and had for his late-hour associates George

THE KNAVE

Barnes, then dramatic critic of the Call, and Percy Wilson, dramatic and racehorse man for the Chronicle. Barnes often declared that a man who went to bed before midnight did not know how half the world lived, and judging from his own habit Barnes had a most extensive knowledge of that other half of local humanity. Of Percy Wilson there was a general doubt among his acquaintances as to his sleeping at all.

One morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock, O'Neill and Wilson found themselves in front of the entrance to the Baldwin Annex, where the actor had his apartments. In the gray dawn O'Neill remarked, "Percy, I believe I will go to bed."

"Good gracious, Jim," responded Wilson, "what shall I do for the rest of the evening?"

Out of sympathy for his lone y friend, O'Neill consented to make one more tour of the "line."

The Big Five

The Hiram Johnson campaign in this city is in charge of the "The Big Five." It had been believed by many that the State Central Committee, of which Meyer Lissner is chairman, and has headquarters at Fourth and Market streets, San Francisco, was in control of the Johnson canvass, but it now appears that this view was a delusion. "The Big Five," with offices in the Mills building, are the real thing, and Lissner is not permitted to take any step or make any move of importance without consulting the quintet and securing its permission to proceed.

The Council of Five consists of Al. McCabe, long-time Democrat and who has served as secretary of Democratic State Central Committees; Bob Duke, police court prosecuting attorney under District Attorney Langdon; Neil Duffy, law partner of Johnson and at one time, if not now, attorney for the Pacific States Telephone company; Franklin A. Griffin, Mark Noon, a bond and warrant clerk under Langdon's administration.

This council has full charge of the bureau of patronage and rewards, otherwise the cutting of the pie made of political plums, which is to be served in the event of Johnson's election. Some of the members of this quintet attend the daily conference at the headquarters of the State Committee and cast the deciding vote on all questions.

"Go and see McCabe" is now a frequent suggestion made to those seeking political patronage, and indicates the status of that Democrat in the local Republican campaign. McCabe is also credited with having a controlling vote in all matters of campaign finance, as well as perspective patronage.

McCabe, together with a private detective named Harry Wilbur, had charge of Francis J. Heney's canvass for district attorney of this city last year. Duke nominally resigned his place in the district attorney's office, under Langdon, to Heney in order to give the latter official status.

There is an odor of burnt rubber in and about the headquarters of the "Big Five" in the Mills building, caused by the frequent and stealthy goings and comings of the surviving members of the Billy Burns gumshoe brigade who are on the roll of aids to the five.

Forecast of Election

Owing to reports received from different parts of the State during the past week, the managers of the Hiram Johnson canvass have modified their estimates, and their forecast of the result of the election is much more conservative than it was one week ago.

The claim that Johnson would come to the Tehachapi ridge with a plurality of 30,000 has been reduced to 12,000. The John on people still claim both the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys for their nominee. San Francisco they concede to Bell, but assert that the Democrat's nominee's plurality in this city will be more than offset by the vote Johnson will receive in Alameda county.

As the campaign progresses and the crucial day of election approaches, the leaders in both parties are becoming more conservative in their claims of pluralities, although their attitude in relation to some sections of the State excites surprise among citizens familiar with past political records. For example, some of the Bell enthusiasts claim an even break for their candidate in Alameda county. This they base on the resentment by the citizens of the attacks by the Lincoln Roosevelt Leaguers on President Taft and his administration.

In San Francisco the claims of a Bell victory are also based, in a measure, on the treatment of President Taft by the Leaguers. The knifing by the Leaguers of the legislative ticket, nominated at the primary, is also a cause of much defection from the head of the Republican ticket. Early in the campaign the cry was for a "straight ticket," but the Leaguers would not act on this line, but by stealth and by secret circular are assailing all legislative nominees who ever had any association, direct or indirect, with the regular Republican organization. This has excited the friends of these candidates to retaliatory action, and they are now openly declaring that if they find their legislative candidates are being knifed by the Leaguers they will seek reprisals at the polls.

In the San Joaquin valley Chester Rowell, the original State organizer and leader of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League, is out for certain Democratic candidates, and refuses to abide by and indorse the full Republican ticket nominated by the electors at the direct primary.

General and His Pay

Brigadier-General Robert Wankowski of the California National Guard, who has a fat job here as deputy state bank commissioner, but who insists on keeping his brigade headquarters in his old Los Angeles home in charge of a subordinate, much to the disgust of most of the guard's officers, received quite a jolt at the recent army maneuvers at Atascadero at the hands of Brigadier-General Tasker H. Bliss and Major E. Smith, paymaster of the United States Army. Wankowski had a right to be at the camp, but there was nothing for him to do, the army formation being regimental and everything being under the command of General Bliss of the regulars. For the two weeks at camp the government's pay to Wankowski was $250. Paymaster Smith in preparing the vouchers found that the California-brigadier had gone to Los Angeles for three or four days, thus absents himself from camp for that length of time. He accordingly made a deduction in his pay for those days. Wankowski got very indignant and appealed to Bliss. The latter told the California general he was powerless to give him relief, because the paymaster was by law required to do what he had done. The episode is a matter of much gossip among both regular and militia officers, their general opinion being that Wankowski should have kept his mouth shut.

New Home of Bohemian Club

Saturday, November 12th, is the night fixed for the opening of the new home of the Bohemian Club at Taylor and Post streets. Guests are to be taboored that evening, for the 1100 members are expected out in full force and will crowd the place. The theater in the club building seats but 600. So there is good reason for barring outsiders the first night. I have had an opportunity to read the stately and eloquent lines of the Greek play written for the opening night by Peter Robertson, with accompanying music by Humphrey J. Stewart. Including a chorus of forty, there will be fifty-three people who will present the play. The play represents Bohemia going to the temple of Apollo to consult the oracle as to the future. Henry McDonald Spencer is to take the part of Apollo. Mackenzie Gordon has a fine song in the production. Allan Dunn takes the part of Bohemia. The play is so meritorious that there is no doubt it will have a public production later on. Two passages from the play—the first time in public print—are deserving of mention. Here is one of the eloquent bursts of Bohemia, showing a keen and philosophic insight into the problem of life:

So have the Gods of High Olympus made man! and, Souls, I bind to themselves, chained in coarse frames of clay.

The creatures of a law, now cruel and now kind! A law inscrutable, men must not comprehend. The high ideal nursed within the soul and sought With eager will, is but a dream. It is the law! The sentient thrill of beauty, throbbing for an hour, Turns into pain as beauty fades. It is the law! The hope that stirs the souls of men becomes a pang, All bitter as it vanishes. It is the law!

The love twist man and woman that brings bliss untold

Its own keen shaft of torture bears. It is the law! The mother's heart that, o'er her offspring, beats with bliss.

Beats faster with an unknown fear. It is the law! The blessing that, with all our earnest soul, we crave Comes not, but in its place, how'er 'tis undesired, There falls the blow we dreamed not of. It is the law.

The will to do all kindness, owning not the means; The right that turns to wrong; the good deed misco-strued, Change I into ill; the ill deed done that we revenge; The ill deed done that we forgive. All might not be! Life knows no everlasting or unsullied joy!

It is the law! Mackenzie Gordon as the Messenger of the Lares sings for Bohemia:

With wreath of bay thy brows are crowned With gift of song thou art endowed. Thalia's mirthful mask is thine; Still wake thou heed of what thy Lares send.

Be thou but true! Ope wide thy heart to all the joys of life; Spare not the pleasures that the Gods may send. Thy nappy revelry can hold no strife With graver purpose; all things work their end!

Forget not that, without thee, there is pain, And care forever hovers round thy door; That sympathy bears sorrow in its train; At thought of others' woe, the heart is sore!

Within thee let the weary soul find rest, The saddened spirit lighten with thy cheer; Love of thy Fellowman, be that thy best And chiefest virtue, by the Gods held dear; Be thou but true!

The Hastings Estate

The Hastings estate, which is said to represent $10,000,000, has a surplus fund of $106,000, and out of it is to pay this week a special dividend of $25,000 to the five groups of heirs. Mrs. John A. Darling, who is the eldest of the heirs, wanted Trustee William Gishman to make the dividend $50,000, but he declined. Gishman, on account of ill health, wants to retire from the trusteeship and the heirs are squabbling among themselves over his successor. If they cannot agree, then according to the provisions of the trust, the selection must be made by the chief justice of the California Supreme Court. One of the five groups of heirs of this estate consists of Elizabeth Parker Hastings of London and her brother, Harry, of this city, the children of the late Robert Hastings. His widow married James W. Daniell of London. Daniell is here trying to get Superior Judge Graham to restore Miss Hastings to competency. He has already had her restored to competency in the English courts. There is a very bitter fight over this young woman's legal status. If she dies before being restored to competency in the California courts, it is said her half of one-fifth of the $10,000,000 estate, or $1,000,000, will revert back to the estate like the share of the late Lilly Onitivia, who died without issue and who left no will. She was the sixth heir of the estate. If Miss Hastings is restored to competency she can make a will. In that event she might remember Stepfather Daniell, of whom she is very fond. This is something Mrs. John A. Darling in particular does not want to happen. This is the real cause of the bitterness between her and Daniell. The young woman is now receiving $600 a month from the estate and $500 a month from separate property she owns here. By the way, only two children of the founder of the estate, Judge S. C. Hastings, are alive. They are Mrs. Darling and her incompetent sister, Ella Hastings. When they die the estate will be distributed among the eight or nine grandchildren.

Very Fond of Smoking

Two members of society living at the Fairmont Hotel are very fond of smoking. Mrs. ———, one of them has abused the cigarette habit so much that her physician has called a halt.

"Bet er smoke a pipe or cigars, for those cigarette weeds are certainly doing you infinite harm," was the professional man's advice.

Ugh! A pipe! Milady could not think of such a plebeian habit. Lately orders for cigars have frequently come from her apartments. Now, are these facts a case of circumstantial evidence that this woman of wealth and position has taken to smoking the fragrant Havana in her boudoir? Answer the question in your own several ways. The other and younger woman writes poetry at times, both original and translation, and has been known to lecture before clubs on English and foreign poets. She is said to find much inspiration in a certain brand of cigarettes. According to their friends, these women think smoking, as a habit among women, is more a question of taste than morals and that it is never good form to do it when you do it for effect, or, when doing it, it gives offense to anyone present. Otherwise there is no more harm in moderate smoking than in moderate drinking of wine, or coffee, or tea. You are, they are represented as believing, undoubtedly better without any of these; but a daily life accompanied only by a hygienically sanctified regimen presents a dreary vista of lengthening years.

Lieutenant As a Dancer

At the St. Francis for several days last week was Lieutenant Wolfgang von Tirpitz of the German navy and a son of Admiral Tirpitz of Berlin, Minister of Marine. He arrived by the Japanese liner, Tenyo Maru, en route home, and his fellow passengers are not yet through talking of the surprise he gave them: aboard ship. On the way to this port from Hongkong to Honolulu they thought him "uppish" and very unsocial. The lieutenant kept to himself, hardly talked at meal times, read much and frowned often. Even several pretty women among the passengers could not get him to come out of his inhospitable shell. Several nights before reaching San Francisco there was a big entertainment in the saloon. Many amateurs of ability had volunteered for the program. Lieutenant Tirpitz threw off his reserve and quietly told the captain he would like to appear as a ballet dancer, but not to announce his name until it was his turn to appear. The captain kept faith. When the German navy officer was announced to do a ballet dancing stunt, a wave of astonishment swept over the saloon audience. The latter was flabbergasted when an almost correct costume he appeared before them as a French ballet performer. They all say it was the piece de resistance of the evening. Clever, agile, nattering, he danced furiously, pirouetted gracefully and won round after round of cheers and applause. At the conclusion of the entertainment many bumper were drunk to the German navy officer's health and he became the most popular fellow aboard for the remainder of the trip. In a social way, he had been a veritable Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde and none attempted to explain the transformation.

Woman At Outs

A tale comes from Monterey about a passage at arms between the clever and irrepressible Vesta Shortridge Bruguiere and Mrs. J. B. Coryell, the society woman of San Mateo, famous among other things, or her orchids, and who because of that fact is as familiar with saccolabiums, dendrobium and adonlog ossums as she is with the alphabet. It appears that Mrs. Coryell had heard that Mrs. Bruguiere's sharp tongue had been making remarks about her. She felt offended and happening to meet the fair Vesta in Monterey remonstrated with her. The successful grower of orchids told Mrs. Bruguiere that her remarks were uncalled for and very unkind, in view of the act that she had always been a consistent friend of the Shortridge family. Quick as a flash the other woman is said to have replied:

"Well, if you think any reference to the Shortridge family is any recommendation in my eyes you are mistaken."

And then there were curtains for this episode in real life.

Masonic Temple

The decision of the California Masonic Grand Lodge to erect, at a cost of $750,000, a temple building on the lot at Van Ness avenue and Oak street it purchased some months ago for $235,000, calls attention to that fine thoroughfare, Van Ness, and its future in the new San Francisco. It is slowly but surely undergoing a great change and will in time be a great street for halls, family hotels, apartment houses and fashion ble stores. Shrewd judges of the growth and future of the city say there is no question but what it is destined to be to this city what Fifth avenue is to New York, and that it will be for traffic purposes one of the three important continuations of Market street, Valencia and the Market street extension through the proposed Twin Peaks tunnel being the other two. The Scottish Rite Masons are just finishing at Sutter and Van Ness a $400,000 structure. Leopold J. Michaels completed some time ago the Richell family hotel on the avenue, near Geary. Other similar structures are going up at various points. The fine Spreckels mansion has been restored and the Hecht people are also restoring some of their buildings as apartment houses. Several churches grace the avenue and several more are contemplated. It will never be a street for residences, as was the case before the fire, with the exception of its northern end. It will always be a fine driveway because the public has always insisted that it be kept free from any kind of street railways. There should be a civic center at Market and Van Ness and the panhandle of Golden Gate Park should be extended that far into the city. Possibly those improvements will come in the full flush of the city's growth as a great metropolitan center. Owners along the avenue are holding their property at very firm prices.

A few days ago the New Orleans Picayune had a long interview with John E. Alexander, formerly of this city, who has just become assistant manager of the De Soto hotel in that city. In display headlines the newspaper says Mr. Alexander decided to leave this city and go to New Orleans to live because he realized San Francisco had not the least chance of getting the Panam-Pacific Exposition as against the other city, and he wanted to participate in the boom times the Crescent City was going to have because of the big exposition. The truth of the matter is that Mr. Alexander did not want to go away from this city. For a number of years he was superintendent of the St. Francis Hotel under Manager James Woods. The latter brought him here from New Orleans for that purpose. Recently, for reasons not made public, Manager Woods saw fit to dispense with his services. Alexander was unable to get any other position here that suited him. This is the sole reason why he has gone back to the Crescent City to live.

To Take Friends to Florida

Twenty of the prominent hotel men of this and other coast cities are being invited by E. L. Potter of Los Angeles to accompany him in a private car as his guests to Florida next month, where he is to open a new $500,000 water hotel. Later on he is to take the party to Washington and New York and return home by way of St. Louis and Denver. The private car is to be fitted up in elegant style and supplied with everything, regardless of expense. It will be a trip long to be remembered. Potter's former big hotel in Florida burned down about eighteen months ago. He is prominent in the Los Angeles hotel field as well, having bought some time ago for $150,000 the lease and furniture of the Van Nuys hotel in that city from M. M. Potter, the manager and one-third owner of the Potter hotel in Santa Barbara. He has made in the past fifteen years in this State and in Florida a large fortune in the hotel business, and among his friends is known as a princely entertainer. It is said the proposed private car trip will cost him about $50,000.

Henley Was Overlooked

Sydney Van Wyck, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and former Supervisor Ralph McLeran, chairman of the evening, made a bad faux pas at the Bell-Spellacy ratification meeting in the Novelty Theater a few nights ago. All sorts of nominees on the city and State tickets were introduced to the large audience and permitted to make brief addresses. For some unaccountable reason, however, Van Wyck and McLeran overlooked Barclay Henley, who is running for Railroad Commissioner, and W. H. De Bell, who is after the position of city superintendent of schools, both of whom were seated on the stage along with the other nominees who spoke. Van Wyck and McLeran have had their lives made miserable for overlooking these two men, and the latter and their friends are not content with the humble apologies which have been made. By the way, De Bell's fight for city superintendent against the Republican incumbent, Roncovieri, is proving a very interesting contest. De Bell has made a record as principal of a grammar school, but he lacks the acquaintance and popularity of Roncovieri and is not as good a "mixer" as the latter. The Lincoln-Roosevelt element are supporting De Bell. Probably a majority of the teachers are favorable to Roncovieri. Most of the teachers, however, think the superintendent of schools should be an appointive officer instead of one elected by the people. A change of this kind, they think, would materially help to keep school affairs out of politics. The charter provides that a man must have lived five years in the city before becoming a candidate for superintendent. The teachers say this is another mistake. They think the mayor and Board of Education should have the right to go anywhere in the country for the best superintendent they can find. It may not be generally known that Berkeley pays its superintendent more salary than San Francisco does.

In Love With the Professor

Mrs. ———, whose friends state she is twenty-four years younger than her husband, has left him and their Western Addition home. A divorce is only a question of a few months at the very most, friends of the couple assert. They have only been married two years, she at the time being 20 and he 44. She didn't want to marry him, protesting she could not love him. Her father was inflexible. He considered that marriage with a rich man would make for his daughter's sure happiness, and he thought her tears and protestations were mere childishness. How can an old man understand a young girl? If her mother had lived it would have been different, but that mother had been dead ten years and she had no one to help her against her father. The husband had no idea that she was madly in love with the young, dreamy eyed fellow who gave her music lessons. How should he? To begin with, the young man was very ugly, and then what is a music teacher? A retired merchant does not allow the existence of such persons. He is a man taken up to instruct the children—a poor wretch who would die of starvation if people didn't pay him for the lessons. And during the two years Prof. ——— had been coming twice a week to teach her, the father had thought no more of him than of the ice man or milkman. He was used to seeing the three of them at certain regular times, and that was all. When a week before the wedding the young professor came to give her the last lesson, she received him with eyes full of tears and her voice broken with sobs. Up till then neither had mentioned the love with which they were filled, yet they had confessed their passion many times—confessions without words. It was the piano, the old piano that formed a part of Mrs. ———'s dower, that had been the messenger of their love.

THE KNAVE

Judge Melvin's Home Popularity.

A man's standing among his neighbors is often the best proof of his fitness and capacity. Judged by this standard Hon. Henry A. Melvin ranks high indeed. By the people among whom he has dwelt ever since boyhood he is loved and esteemed. They respect him for his virtues and talents and honor him for those generous qualities which sweeten the amenities of social intercourse.

Judge Melvin well deserves the good opinion in which he is held by the people who know him best. As a neighbor, as a citizen, as an official he measures up to a high standard. He is able, just and honorable. He has performed his duty in whatever field his activities have been set. He grew to manhood in Oakland, was educated at the State University, began the practice of law here and rose to the Supreme Bench from the Superior Bench of this county. He proved himself a capable advocate at the bar, and as a trial judge displayed firmness, probity, impartiality and a keen love for justice. Yet withal his sympathies were so warm that mercy tempered the stern justice of his judgments. He was noted for his rapid dispatch of business. On the Supreme Bench he has been a diligent worker.

Judge Melvin will receive an enormous vote in his home county, for the people here know him to be square in every sense of the word, know that he is capable, learned and trustworthy. They resent the under-handed, treacherous fight made against him, and they are going to show the people of the other counties how much his neighbors think of him. With their ballots they will tell Judge Melvin's detractors how well he stands in the community that has known him from boyhood and in which he is held in affectionate regard. His home folks are going to roll up a testimonial vote for him that will be something to gaze at.

"The Republican protective tariff is a matter of principle," said Theodore Roosevelt speaking a few days ago in Boston. We should like to hear Roosevelt's professed followers in California say the same thing. We should like to hear them "enthusiastically endorse President Taft," as did the Republican convention in New York controlled by Theodore Roosevelt. Then we should be spared the spectacle of the chairman of the Republican State Committee denying that he had instructed Republican campaign speakers to refrain from praising the Republican President.

Making Men Famous.

Edgar Allan Poe has at last been admitted to the New York hall of fame, but he had to come in behind the skirts of Harriet Beecher Stowe. Oliver Wendell Holmes, William Cullen Bryant and Francis Parkman, the historian, are still counted unworthy to be classed with the famous. Yet all three have achieved lasting fame, have earned a title to remembrance as long as the English language endures.

The petty Senate in New York that presumes to confer and withhold immortality cannot detract from the estimation in which the world holds them, cannot pull them from the high place they hold in mankind's regard, but they keep up the solemn farce of conferring fame upon persons already famous. Poe has been rejected a dozen times, but finally he was voted famous. While his title to fame was being denied in New York he was regarded in Europe as the most famous man of letters America has yet produced—the greatest of our poets and finest of stylists.

Shallow critics still cite his fondness for liquor and his indifference about paying his debts as proofs that he did not possess true genius. Likewise men have pointed to Byron's amours as evidence that his poetry was inferior and meretricious, but Byron's fame continues to rise nevertheless. Poe's habits have nothing to do with the quality of his literary product. His poems and tales speak for themselves.

It is beside the point to say that the author got drunk and neglected to pay his debts. The man's character is not in question. It is the quality of the work he left as a legacy to posterity. So long as that work commands admiring readers so long will Poe be remembered and held in grateful recollection. That grateful remembrance is his fame, not the formal approval of a group of pompous prigs.

Senator Aldrich has made good his promise to retire from official life at the close of his present term. He will disappear from the Senate when Congress adjourns on the fourth of next March. For twenty years he has been a leader of the upper house, during the last ten the leader of leaders. His indomitable will, his reserve force, his talent for organization, his powers of concentration made him a dominating figure in the most august legislative body in the world. Now he lays it all down and quietly walks off the political stage when another six-year term was his for the asking. Aldrich had no fear of defeat in Rhode Island. When Hale announced his retirement in Maine the State was rumbling with a discontent which forbade disaster. There is no such situation in Rhode Island. Aldrich is the idol of that State, and he gives up his toga with the people of his State anxious to honor him again.

I. G. Zumbalt, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second District, says Francis J. Heney is a liar. Why does he not tell the public something new? Every body knows what Heney is.

Progress of Aviation.

While the conquest of the air is far from complete, it has made more rapid progress within the past two years or so than any other science made before it. Nature's secret of sustaining bodies heavier than air in it and propelling them through it at as great a speed as that of the swiftest winged birds has been discovered. And with it has been acquired the knowledge of controlling the mechanical devices constructed for the conquest of the air and preserving their equilibrium, and directing their course with well-nigh absolute certainty. Moreover, the modern man-bird has proved his ability to soar heights that no winged creature save the eagle has demonstrated its ability to reach. Daring aviators have ascended over 9000 feet in the air, where the cold was too intense to permit the oil which fed their motors with power to flow and they have returned to earth in safety with the swiftness of the hawk descending on its quarry.

With all the remarkable progress it has made aviation is, however, still in the experimental stage. Neither the monoplane, the biplane nor the dirigible balloon has yet attained the practical stage in development. These machines must prove their reliability before they can be pronounced practical; and, before reliability is assured these machines will have to be constructed of stouter material and propelled with more strongly constructed machinery than they possess today. It is believed that aviation has reached a stage in its development when it can be made of great service in time of war; but even that is at best a mere theory. So frail are the aerial machines which are now being used solely for exhibition purposes that the most experienced and venturesome aviators dare not attempt flight except when the weather is fine and the wind is light.

High hopes were at one time centered in the dirigible balloon, the most perfect of which has been developed by Count Zeppelin. The experimental voyages made by Zeppelin's airships made such an impression on the German government that it decided at one time, to incorporate an aerial fleet as a military auxiliary. But the disasters which overtook one after the other of the Count's creations influenced the government to revoke the decision as impracticable. Inventors are now devoting their energies toward the improvement of the aeroplane and strengthening and increasing the power of the machinery propelling it. Time alone will determine whether it can be made of permanent practical value, for many problems in aerial navigation remain to be solved before that point can be reached.

The trial of Ethel Claire Leneve on the charge of being an accessory to the murder of Belle Elmore and her acquittal by a British trial court was even shorter than that of Dr. Crippen, her paramour, who is condemned to hang for the crime on November 8. Her acquittal by the jury was also marked by the same fairness as was the conviction of Crippen, for in her case Chief Justice Alverston instructed the jury that the prosecution had not produced evidence to show that she had guilty knowledge of Crippen's crime and he saw no reason why Crippen should have told her a different story regarding his wife's disappearance than that which he had told to others.

The achievements of French and German aviators have been assumed to demonstrate how easy it will be to invade the British Isles and place London, the national capital, at the mercy of the aerial invaders. But the sober analysis of aviation does not overlook the fact that the possibilities in one direction apply also in the other. If the aviation invasion of Britain exposes the British metropolis, it also, as a natural sequence exposes the safety of the French and German capitals from British attack by precisely the same agents. The game of conquest is thus evened. Hence Britain is unperturbed.

According to the Galveston News, plans are already being prepared to establish a Japanese steamship line between Yokohama and Galveston as soon as the Panama Canal is opened. Japan imports the bulk of her supply of raw cotton from the United States. The object of starting the line to Galveston is to secure the cotton shipments to Japan. Now Galveston is a small city compared to New Orleans, but it has been selected as the terminal of the Japanese line in preference to the Crescent City. Apparently the Japanese steamship men have no high opinion of New Orleans as a marine metropolis.

The Los Angeles Herald says the charge that the Democratic candidate is "too friendly to the Southern Pacific" is unjust to Bell. Well, what of it? Did not Bell make the same unjust charge against others? The Herald chortled with joy when Mr. Johnson and Mr. Bell assailed honored leaders of the Republican party as abject slaves of the railroad, but it protests plaintively when Bell falls under the same sort of condemnation. Of course the charge can neither be proved nor disproved, so Bell will have to take his medicine. Every man who refuses to vote the Republican ticket this year declares himself to be a chattel of the Southern Pacific.

"Patrick Calhoun has taken charge of the campaign against Johnson," says the veracious Bulletin. Perhaps that explains why Dr. Edvard Robeson Taylor, the Spreckels reform Mayor, has taken the stump for Bell. Patrick Calhoun is in New York and has not been in California for months. But what does that matter to the Bulletin?

When man works, always willing the good, he saves his soul by keeping his manhood whole; man also saves his dignity and his digestion by willing work.

You can't do things well yourself when you are always watching how other people "spell" perfection; you can't spy and wipe your own dishes dry.

Man must work to get knowledge and must work to keep it; man's use of his knowledge in his work draws an ever-increasing knowledge as a reserve for his work.

Man must identify himself with ideas and "set his stakes" direct to the goal if he expects to reach success; man must concentrate if he would have a good rate of pay.

Man is as broad as his brain is big when the broadness of his thought overcomes all narrowness of his action—man's interests can be trusted to the intensity of his mind.

Man can never get control over himself by cringing before the power of others; man can never rule himself if he run from others.

Some think death to be the door to heaven and then want to back out as they reach the doorstep; "harmony heaven" in this life helps man to pass through the doorway into the advanced grade.

Expression of the positive in man evolves his best virtues, for when he builds from good to better and from better to the best he sings the song of joy; man speaks hate by gnashing his teeth and expresses sorrow by weeping.

It's best to win through work and you should be thankful that you can work to win; work is opportunity's open door.

Tree life has been most friendly to humanity; it has given its fruit and lent its shade, and from its store palaces and prettily places have been made; it has healed the sick and warmed mankind; by its changing life it has spoken most beautifully of springtime and autumn days.

Man's good health depends much upon his hearty use of fresh air; man can cure his ills by courting the contrary current, in his bed-chamber.

When man runs out of his own right way to lift his brother man from the wrong way, he gets to the goal through the good he has done—goodness guides to the pearly gates.

Kindness kindles the fire in the heart and helps man to live; hate makes of life a strung-out hardship—unfits him to die.

MEMORIAL TO DANTE

New York's Italian citizens, who have already presented the city with monuments to Columbus, Garibaldi, Verdi and Verrazano, are now subscribing to a fund with which to erect a monument to Dante, author of the "Divine Comedy." The figure of the poet, of heroic size, will be backed by a shaft of granite sixty-five feet from base to summit. Life size figures of Literature and Religion and life size groups representing Dante's vision of Hell, Purgatory and Heaven, will decorate the base. At the very foot, in bas-relief, is the Roman wolf suckling Romulus and Remus. Above the poet's head is an American eagle, bearing a laurel crown. The monument is topped with a single star, symbol of the hope of modern Italy. If the plans are approved by the city authorities, the memorial will be assigned a place in one of the parks.—New York Tribune.

WOMEN AND CUSTOMS LAWS

A wealthy and cultured woman recently was fined $5000 by a Federal court for trying to smuggle jewels into the United States.

Several other women equally prominent have been determined within the last few weeks trying to evade payment of the duty on gems brought into this country.

It is a far cry from the bejeweled woman of the ballroom to the ship captain who formerly brought his goods across the Atlantic and deposited them in the dark at an obscure point on the New England coast.

Equally as great is the distance between this woman and the Mexican who secretly packs his mule-load of tobacco across the Texas border.

And yet the woman is regarded in the same light by the authorities as is the Mexican or as was the old sea captain years ago.

She is a smuggler. She is on the same plane, in the eyes of the Federal Government as is the "moonshiner" in Tennessee, who makes his untaxed whiskey in defiance of the law.

Her crime is relatively as serious as was that of the American Sugar Refining Company in the use of false scales and the hidden wire.—Philadelphia Times

SPIES AS THEY ARE SEEN

Even since the days of Mithram readers of fiction have been regaled with lurid tales of the operations of secret agents of the Russian police in foreign lands. On the stage the double-hearted spy who consorted with Russian revolutionists in Berne, Paris and London and betrayed their secrets to the Government at St. Petersburg has become a stock character in melodrama. But it is only within the last few years—in fact, since the failure of the popular uprising in 1905—dove thousands of political refugees to seek safety in the United States—that the Russian spy system has become a recognized institution here.

The public statement issued last week in this city by a committee of six appointed to investigate the charge that "A Evalevko is guilty of having been a secret agent of the Russian Police Department, to whom he delivered evidence against political immigrants living here," was aimed at a man who had figured conspicuously in a number of Russian revolutionary organizations.

To Americans the mere idea of a political spy system is altogether abhorrently repulsive, in no one to be welcomed. No more are the occasional manifestations that the Mexican Government maintains a spy system in the United States. But as a ready perhaps none better can be found than the method of the committee that publicly denounced the man Evalevko as a secret agent of the Russian police. The spy whose occupation is generally known has little value and less power to betray secrets.—N. Y. World.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Commencing Saturday, November 1st, the Brooklyn and Fruitvale street car line, commonly called the Tubbs' hotel line, will connect with all narrow gauge trains from 6:45 a. m. till 12:20 the following morning. Late cars will leave East Oakland at 11, 11:20, 11:40 p. m. and at midnight.

The names on the new giant register in the various parts of the county are as follows. Brooklyn outside the city of Oakland, 556; Murray Township, 1244; Oakland Township, 1391; Berkeley, 1040; Eden, 1314; Washington, 822; Oakland, first ward, 1694; second ward, 1619; third, 1426; fourth, 1665; fifth, 1200; sixth, 1794; seventh, 1698; Alameda Township, 2142.

There will be a special meeting of the city council tomorrow night for the purpose of considering the question of the main lake sewer.

County Treasurer Huff brought from Sacramento this morning $7200, the amount allowed by the State for the care of indigents during the last six months.

The will of Dr. E. Cole has been presented for probate by the widow, Mary P. Cole, who is named therein as executrix. His estate consists of eleven unimproved lots in San Francisco, valued at $1000, thirty acres of land in Washington Township, worth $10,000; improved and unimproved property in Oakland, worth $25,000, household furniture, etc., worth $2500, money in bank, $2500, forty shares of stock of the Oakland Bank of Savings, valued at $1600; promissory notes, stocks, etc., the value of which is unknown.

The will of William J. Frierson has been filed for probate. The estate of the deceased is valued at $20,500.

R. B. S. York, F. W. Sawyer and Cary Howard have appraised the estate of Shirley G. Mann, a minor, at $1437.50.

Birdie E. Robinson has brought suit for divorce from Julian C. Robinson. The mercury went up to 78 in the shade this morning.

M. L. Clark, a brakeman on the broad-gauge train, is presented with a gold watch by Captain Nelson of East Oakland for the speedy stopping of the train a few days ago which was dragging the captain, and thus saved the captain's life.

The county teachers' institute is in progress in Hamilton hall. Among the subjects discussed are "Graded Work," by G. W. Horton, "Physical Conditions of Success in Teaching," by John Dickinson; "The Study of Civil Government," by Mrs. M. L. Griffin, and "Patriotism," by Miss Esther Frank.

CARELESS CANVASS INFLATES CENSUS OF MINNEAPOLIS

Enumerators Count the Same
Noses Repeatedly in Lodging
Houses and Hotels.

YET DIRECTOR FINDS NO FRAUD ANYWHERE

Points Out Difference Between Situation in Tacoma and the Flour City.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Director Durand of the census bureau, in straightening out the population figures of Minneapolis, points out the difference between the over-counting of the population of that city and practices in Tacoma, where the population jumped 40,000 beyond the actual figures. He finds no frauds anywhere, only carelessness. He says:

"There is no evidence of any concerted attempt on the part of the enumerators or the superintendent or of any group of private individuals to fraudulently pad the census returns. The greater part of the names eliminated were in two enumeration districts out of 1906 districts in the city. The enumerators for these two districts may not have deliberately intended to defraud, but it scarcely seems possible that they should have failed to note that they were, to the least, interpreting the enumerations very loosely.

WHERE RECOUNT OCCURRED.

"The counting in these districts resulted almost altogether in the repetition of visits to lodging houses and hotels. Not content with enumerating all the people who were present in such lodging houses and hotels on the census day or on the day of the first visit of the enumerator, these enumerators counted very large numbers of people who were not present at the first visit or on the census day, but who came to these lodging houses subsequently. It is evident that this practice, in the first place, permits the duplication of names within the city itself, by reason of the fact that many persons go from one lodging house to another, and, in the second, results in the enumeration of people who were not present after the census day and who were presumably enumerated elsewhere.

CENSUS METHODS DEFENDED.

"The instructions to the enumerators and to the supervisors made it quite clear that such repetition of was improper. I note that it has been suggested that the fault lies with the methods of the census bureau itself in not arranging for the enumeration of lodging houses and hotels on a single day. As a matter of fact, the instructions of the census bureau to the supervisors were specifically that, so far as possible, they should arrange for the enumeration of lodging houses and hotels on a single day, but it was at the time thought not wise to make these instructions absolutely binding in every case.

WIN SUIT FOR SALVAGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Judge Ross in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals handed down a decision today in favor of the Interior and Steam Navigation company and John D. Spreckels Co. vs. the British ship Locke Garve for $12,500. The Locke Garve was ashore near the harbor of Kamalo on the island of Molokai on March 6, 1907. The tug Italo, Claudine and Mauna Loa were hurried to the scene of the wreck and claimed salvage. Judge Ross said he thought that $12,500 was a reasonable figure for the services rendered.

RABIES TREATMENT TO BEGIN TUESDAY

Concord Boy to Be Brought to Berkeley for Pasteur Remedy After Dog Bite.

PERKLEY, Oct. 29.—Treatment in the case of Joseph Shark, the 10-year-old Concord boy, who was bitten by a mad dog last Thursday and possibly infected with rabies, will probably commence next Tuesday when it is expected the Pasteur treatment will have arrived from Washington.

It was stated today by Dr. W. A. Sawyer, director of the State Hygienic Laboratory at the University of California, who discovered the infection in the dog's head, that it would be necessary for the boy to receive treatment for a period of twenty-six days and that in all probability it would result successfully.

CAN BE AT LIBERTY.

"During the treatment it will not be necessary for the patient to be confined to his bed, but he will have to come every day to receive the injections. Contrary to the general belief, the patient does not at the present time show any symptoms of the rabies and would not be likely to for some weeks. It is the purpose of the treatment to prevent the infection from manifesting itself and it should be completed during the period of incubation.

Redmen Will Give Big Theater Party

Uncas Tribe No. 137, Order of Red Men, is planning a benefit theater party to be given at the Liberty Theater next Wednesday evening. The party will be "The Call of the North," a stirring drama. Those who have the arrangements in charge are William E. Freeman, A. Paul, H. M. A. Schaffer, A. M. Schaffer, James H. McKoon and Charles Burnett. Tickets can be obtained from Frank C. Smith, 1003 Broadway; Ernest Wilson, 400 Thirteenth street, and any other member of the tribe.

THREATENS MAN'S LIFE.

SANTA ROSA, Oct. 29.—A well-dressed woman who gave the march and dance of the Glendons of Burdick, Cal., created a scene on one of the main streets of the city last night about midnight by flourishing a loaded revolver in the face of a man supposed to be her husband. She threatened to kill him. Both were arrested and gave bail. The couple left here today.

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Men --- Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakness and memory, falling memory and lack of energy, brought on by excesses, unnatural habits, or the follies of youth, that has cured so many men and women. I have tried it on my own home—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his strength, power and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest and quickest contributor for the cure of debility, manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

SEA CAPTAIN TWICE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Strange Malady Attacks Skipper of British Ship Dunfermline.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—As a result of a temporary attack of melancholia, of unknown cause, Captain John Parker of the British ship Dunfermline twice attempted suicide yesterday, but in each instance was prevented from carrying out his purpose by the prompt intervention of his first officer.

The first attempt was frustrated when Parker tried to swallow a bottle of poison, which was forced from his clenched fingers, as was also the revolver with which the second attempt was made. Dr. Charles MacDonald was called to attend Parker, who was taken to a private hospital for treatment.

SEA DIVER TO WED GIRL IN LION'S DEN

Judge Treadwell to Officiate Today at Novel Ceremony at the Chutes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Margaret Leggett, a pretty young woman connected with the Chutes, and Richard Warner, a deep sea diver, are to be married today evening at the Chutes. The ceremony will be a novel one, as the couple will be married in a specially erected lion den near the foot of the chute.

PLAYGROUND GRA IT IS RULED NOT PERMANENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—City Attorney Leggett, who is in charge of the Commission that the recent adoption of a resolution by the Board of Education granting the commission the use of two unoccupied pieces of school property does not guarantee any permanent possession to the Playground Board. Under the charter, as the city attorney points out, only the Board of Supervisors has the right to transfer from one department to another "vacant and unused lots of land."

CRUISERS WILL JOIN REMAINDER OF FLEET

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The cruisers South Dakota, Maryland and West Virginia, recently repaired and overhauled at Mare Island, will tomorrow rejoin the cruisers now lying in the stream. This will be the first time in several Sundays that all of the Pacific fleet has been together.

SMALLPOX BREAKS UP BIG COLLEGE

350 Students and Several of Minnesota University Faculty Are Quarantined.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—By order of President Northrop, 350 students and possibly a few members of the faculty of the University of Minnesota will be excluded on Monday morning from their classes, the order to be continued in effect for a period extending three weeks from next Tuesday.

The failure of the students to comply with the State law requiring that all students should be vaccinated within three days after the first exposure to smallpox or be excluded from recitations for three weeks was the occasion of this action.

J. E. Beaudry of the undertaking firm of Beaudry & McArthur, who has been seriously ill at his home in Brooklyn since Saturday last, when he was taken suddenly ill after an attack of pneumonia, is slowly recovering.

BRODERICK LIKELY TO RESIGN BOARD

Friends Intimate That Works
Official Objects to Law On Personal Liability.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—It was announced this afternoon on good authority that Patrick Broderick, commissioner of the Board of Public Works, will shortly resign as a member of that body, desiring to devote himself to a private business. Commissioner Broderick could not be reached during the day for a confirmation of the report, but his colleague, President Casey, said that he had heard the statement, though he excused himself from saying whether it was true or not. He added that if Broderick retired from the board, it would not be because of any unpleasantness between them, as his relations with his fellow members were entirely cordial.

Though this is not so stated on Broderick's authority, it is known that he has felt inclined to retire from the board because of what he considers the injustice of the law as now existing which makes members of the board personally liable for damages claimed by individuals who suffer loss or injury through defects in street pavements or other causes of accident chargeable to the department.

ASK FOR A RECEIVER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Ralph W. Boyer of Milford, Mass., one of the most extensive stockholders in the San Francisco Electric Light and Power Company, filed a petition in the United States Circuit Court today for the appointment of a receiver for the corporation and an injunction restraining the officers from disposing of any stock pending action by court. The officers of the electric light, as respondents, filed an answer requesting that a receiver be appointed.

DEPOSED SULTAN VISITS GIBRALTAR

Former Moroccan Monarch Is Given Marked Attention by British Authorities.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 29.—Abdul Aziz, the deposed Sultan of Morocco, who arrived here yesterday, is delighted with the attention shown him by the authorities. The latter took him through the dock yards workshop and through the battleship Prince of Wales, and also gave him an opportunity of witnessing the maneuvers of the Norfolk regiment.

To the Prince of Hattenburg, one of his guides, he expressed much astonishment and admiration. The Moor displayed great interest in the tennis and football matches which he watched.

He has been long a sportsman, and it was his love for sports, especially cycling and billiards, which first caused his people to oppose him on the ground that he was too fond of European customs.

STREET CAR FENDER SAVES ANOTHER LIFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—While crossing Market at Fourth street at 1 o'clock tonight, Dennis Driscoll, who lives at 618 St. Helena street, was by a car and thrown upon the fender. At the Central Emergency hospital it was found that Driscoll was suffering from severe bruises and shock.

8 YEARS and SPEAKS SIX LANGUAGES

WINIFRED TWO PLAYMATES HER BURRO "PRINCE KARLO" AND HER FRIEND PEGGY "MANNING".

JAMES SIDIS, THE HARVARD PHENOMENON WHO IS CHIEF'S ONLY RIVAL

TOUGHEST LESSONS HAVE NO TERROR FOR LITTLE MISS Winifred Stoner Is Marvel

IN Palo Alto there is a little girl who all day long plays with her dolls and frisks from room to room in the beautiful home of her parents with all the joyousness of other little women of her age and who is said to be the brainiest youngster in the world. Already educators and professors are hailing this little 8-year-old as the coming rival to William Sidis, the 12-year-old phenomenon who is daily astonishing instructors at Harvard University by his feats of learning.

The little girl's name is Winifred Sackville Stoner. She is the only daughter of Dr. J. B. Stoner, surgeon in the United States army, stationed at Palo Alto, in command of the United States Marine Hospital. Her mother is a daughter of Lord Sackville, who was Ambassador to this country from Great Britain during President Cleveland's administration.

Winifred or Cherie, as she is called familiarly, can speak English, French, Spanish, Latin and Esperanto fluently to the extent of carrying on a conversation in them and can read without difficulty works written in six other tongues. Sidis is her only rival and as she is four years that you h's junior he may be advised to look well to his laurels as the most remarkable infantile prodigy.

This girl proudly studies as other children play. While she plays with her toys it is with a book by her side and the books get most of the attention at all times.

Not only is Cherie a linguist with a stock of tongues in her head that surpasses the vocabulary of the most ardent savants, but she is a poet and has published a book of her verses. She is a reader of classics and would be perfectly at home at Dr. Miller's five-foot shelves if she were tall enough to reach up to the row.

The youngster writes a hand that the average 16-year-old school girl would be proud to be able to duplicate. She is not an old-fashioned child in the sense that the term is usually accepted, but a genuine whole-souled happy little youngster that one sees replicas of in every city.

A reporter called to see little Cherie a few days ago to talk with her of her accomplishments.

COMES DOWN ALONE

He was ushered into the drawing room by a neatly dressed maid who went upstairs and announced the visitor.

Usually, Mrs. Stoner is present during interviews but on this day she was indisposed and consented to allow the child to descend to the parlor alone.

Quite like a little lady she pushed aside the curtains and gravely looking the reporter over, she offered her hand in greeting and suggested that he take a seat.

"You have called to talk with me concerning my proposed course at Stanford I suppose," she began with a smile.

The reporter politely, one couldn't help being polite in the presence of such evident good breeding, acknowledged that such was his purpose and begged that she would tell him all about her studies and her self and promised not to interrupt.

And these are the words which the phenomenal child used in telling her story:

MOTHER'S SECRETARY.

"Mother is quite ill today," she said, and apologized for not coming down.

Her eyes are bandaged and she couldn't see you," she continued naively. "I don't suppose it makes much difference. I am her secretary now, and take care of all her correspondence." The reporter gasped and almost broke his promise of no interruptions. "Eight years old and a private secretary," he thought.

"I have brought you my picture," she continued. "It was taken for me by my Esperanto Onkio Karl, who's other name is Mr. Randall, of Seattle, Wash."

"It is rather hard to beg a to tell you how I learn my lessons. To begin with, I never study. I have learned Roman history and Greek history by using the text as the basis of a game which I play with my mother. When we take long walks through the country together I learn geography because mother tells me of the lakes and rivers and the various great and wonderful places in the world just as some mothers talk to their children about Jack the Giant Killer. I think fairy tales are nonsense, don't you?"

BREATH LEAVES HIM.

The reporter to gain time for breath

which was rapidly leaving him because of the rapidity with which the little Miss was telling her story murmured, "Why of course," and she continued:

"Arithmetic. I am acquiring by playing games sent me by my dear summer teacher in Chicago, Mrs. Hornbrook."

"I don't know why you reporters are making such a fuss anyhow. I am only a little girl who loves her books because they are so interesting and because perhaps I have never been compelled to study them. The reason I can spell better than most girls is, I suppose, because I have a picture of every word in my head and it was made there by copy-

ROMANCES OF THE LOTTERY

LONDON.—That the age of lottery romance is by no means over is proved by a singular story which has just come to us from Brussels. For some time no claimant appeared for the principal prize in the Brussels Exhibition lottery, of the value of 2,000,000 francs and as the period drew near the excitement of the owners of the winning ticket would ever be traced, until a week or so ago it was discovered in a dramatic fashion.

A few days before the result of the lottery drawing was announced, a young Belgian miner had been tragically killed by a stone falling on his head while at work; and, according to custom, he had been buried in his best suit of clothes.

The man had been some time underground when his relations recalled that he had purchased a ticket for the great lottery and that it had probably been buried with him. A petition was made to the authorities for permission to exhum the body; and in a waltz-like poem, he was found, would have made him a rich man.

HIS LUCKY PURCHASE.

The recent history of lotteries is full of stories of similar romances, most of which are practically unknown to the public at large. "Rouge et Noir," for instance, recalls how "a few years ago I was at Frankfurt on the eve of the lottery being drawn. At an hotel I met several gentlemen, one of whom regretted having spent two florins on a ticket, as he never had any luck; another gentleman offered him two florins for it, which offer was accepted. On the following day the ticket won 1,000 florins."

He also tells another story of a tradesman who had bought four tickets, bearing consecutive numbers, in a big lottery. Thinking it foolish to have so many tickets so close together, he took one of them back to the office and had it exchanged for another. His disgust can be better imagined than described when the ticket thus exchanged won a prize of £20,000.

WINNING £40,000.

A more fortunate experience was that of a French widow, one Mme. Hoser, who was "passing rich" on a few francs a day earned as a seamstress to a regiment of dragoons. One day Madame decided to invest her very small savings in three tickets for a forthcoming lottery, the chief prizes in which were of dazzling richness. She was offered tickets numbered consecutively 2171, 2172 and 2173. The last of the three she promptly refused to accept, as it contained the unlucky number "3." Ticket No. 2174 was willingly substituted, and it was this very ticket, so quizzically chosen, which won for her the first prize of £40,000.

GOLDEN DREAMS.

A few years ago on the date for the drawing of the annual Christmas lottery at Madrid was approaching, a poor man of Corunna was awakened three consecutive nights by the number 135-889, apparently spoken in his ear. So impressed was he by the repetition of the incident that he wrote down the number and jocularly said to his wife: "That number will win the first prize in the great lottery." "Then why don't you buy the ticket?" his wife answered, jokingly, as she looked at the figures. "Why, see, if you add them together they total come to my age. I shall be thirty-one on Christmas day."

The ticket, after much trouble, was found (it had been lost a few minutes earlier by a wealthy citizen of Corunna) and bought; and he was many days later, passed the mechanic and his wife were made jubilant by the news that the ticket had won the first prize of £200,000.

WELCOME CHRISTMAS BOX.

Of the same Spanish lot any other remarkable story is told. A Madrid crossing sweeper was playing his brush one morning when he saw an old lady slip and falling on stepping of the pavement. He rushed to her assistance and raised her to her feet, expecting at the most to receive copper as the reward of his gallantry. "I have no money with me," said the old lady, but she handed him a crushed piece of paper—take this, and may it bring you luck." The piece of paper was a tenth-share ticket in the Christmas lottery, which a few weeks later made the crossing sweeper rich "beyond the dreams of avarice," his share of the third prize amounting to £3000.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Equally romantic was the experience of a poor housekeeper, who won in a Berlin lottery. One day a shabby-dressed man entered her shop and, begging permission to light his pipe, produced a piece of paper which he twisted into a spill. After securing a light he threw down the charred spill on the floor and with a "Thank you," walked off. On the following morning, when sweeping the shop door, the widow picked up the discarded spill, and finding that it was a ticket for a coming lottery, the number of which was untouched by fire, she put it in her purse, saying laughingly to her daughter, "There is a fortune in this piece of paper, my dear." Weeks passed, and the incident and the ticket were almost forgotten, when she chanced to see the winning numbers of the lottery in a newspaper.

Then it flashed on her that she, too, had a ticket, and producing the charred, crumpled piece of paper from her purse she found, to her amazement and delight, that the number on it he won a prize of £10,000.

LONDON.—On October 1st the world's greatest brass band festival will take place at the Crystal Palace, when some 1000 musicians, forming 200 of the best brass bands in the United Kingdom, will compete for the 1000-guinea challenge trophy and many valuable money prizes.

The winners of the trophy last year were the members of the Shaw brass band, a body of musicians hailing from a small Lancashire village near Oldham. The Shaw band is typical of several of the champion bands of the country. The members are mostly self-taught and with that love for music which is so characteristic of North-country folk, and it is a remarkable fact that funds were so low last year that the band only just escaped missing the competition altogether. There was not enough money to pay for the trip to London, but a "whip round" was made. The Crystal Palace was visited as the result, and, to the great jubilation of the bandmen, they carried off the premier trophy. Never was a band more honored than the Shaw band when the members returned to their native heath, for they were welcomed by a crowd of no fewer than 25,000 people.

THE CRACK BAND OF THE WORLD. It is difficult for those who do not live in the Midlands and the north to understand the keen interest which is taken in these bands. The rivalry can only be compared with that which characterizes league football, the competition for places in the hands of the equally keen. In the case of the brass bands, for instance, the home of the famous Lancashire band—it is the ambition of every lay to become a member. Yes, of the Barn is the oldest band of the world and one of the oldest, for it was founded over a century ago. It has played in over 200 contests, and won something like £10,000 in prizes.

Then there is the Black Dyke band, the Dwell Springs, and the Winkles Temperance—all champion bands, and all made up for the most part from the workers in mill and factory and the two last-named with it either win the trophy this year, become gold medalists, an honor which has not yet been secured.

HATS OFF TO MR. ILES!

"Do you mean to tell me that these players are all working men? It is wonderful." The words are those of the late Sir Arthur Sullivan, who he heard, for the first time, some of these bands playing; and it was really owing to this remark that the great festival, which will take place at the Crystal Palace on October 1st, was inaugurated in 1900. The guiding spirit is Mr. Iles, who has devoted practically the whole of his life to the encouragement of music amongst the masses. It was Mr. Iles that Sir Arthur suggested that it might be possible to bring the whole of the brass bands together at some great festival gathering. It was a scheme that Mr. Iles had long had in mind, and thus it came about, with the influence of Sir Arthur, that the brass band festival was arranged and valuable prizes offered. Sir Arthur himself conducted the first festival in July, 1900, and it is a curious fact that it was the last appearance in public of the great composer.

For the first festival only forty bands entered, but its popularity is illustrated by the fact that the number of competitors has steadily grown to a couple of hundred, and if further evidence were required as to the popularity of this ing rhymes on the typewriter. "Languages, I am particularly fond of. I can talk to my deities in French, Spanish, Latin, Esperanto, Japanese, Russian, Polish, Italian, German and a little Hebrew. I have been trying to get papa to buy me a beginner's work on Sanskrit but he says ten are enough for a little girl to understand."

LIKES ESPERANTO.

"Of the languages I have learned, I like Esperanto best." "I believe that some day you and everyone else will be able to talk Esperanto. That will be fun and save lots of trouble and money." Just then Mrs. Stoner called down stairs to her daughter, the reporter took the hint and went back to his office. Cherie enters Stanford University in the spring. It is certain the world will hear much more of her before very long.

Claim Young Couple Married by Fraud

PHILADELPHIA.—Mrs. Eva Krause, the 17-year-old bride of Ernest Krause, of 203 North Third street, was sent to the House of Correction for three months by Magistrate Smith, accused of being incoercible and of having married her 16-year-old husband under false pretenses.

Mrs. Ida Monday of 722 North Fourth street, the mother of the girl, told the magistrate that she could do nothing with her daughter, and as the parents of young Krause testified that their son had been married by fraud, the girl was committed.

Michael Engelhart and Gus Levine have been arrested in the case, charged with conspiracy in bringing about the wedding for their own advantage. The case will be tried out in the courts.

Physicians Peevish by "Petticoat Rule"

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 16.—Dr. Harry Lloyd and Dr. Edward Krayen, residents of Mercer Hospital, this city, resigned and left immediately with the declaration that they could no longer stand for "petticoat rule." By "petticoat rule" they meant the administration of Miss Alice Glimmed, supervising nurse and head of the hospital. They complained that she has been trying to dictate to them in the treatment of patients.

Woman Drops Dead While Testifying

BUFFALO, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Mary J. Burrows of 1455 Kensington street dropped dead while on the stand in this Supreme Court here testifying in her suit for $10,000 damages against the Street Railway Company. The death put an end to the trial and court was adjourned. Her husband was in the room at the time. The woman was being questioned by her attorney when stricken and she fell back into the arms of a bystander.

HEREDITARY TALENT.

In many cases this love of music amongst the working classes of the Midlands and the north is hereditary. Mr. Iles has said that he has heard of a family in the family. Father learns the cornet and enters into the prize band; he teaches it to his sons, and so this amazing musical education runs on. At one time in the Winkles band there were no fewer than five brothers.

HOW THE PRIZES ARE AWARDED.

And so less interesting than the bands themselves is the manner in which the festival is conducted. The contests are arranged in heats, and the order in which the bands perform is decided by ballot. The principal of each band draws a number, and each turn is decided upon by that number. Each contest is carried on at once, the bands being placed in a small room, so situated that it is impossible for them to see the band, and yet they hear the music distinctly. All they know is that band number so-and-so is playing, and their award is made strictly in accordance with the merits of the music.

The bands, of course, play the same test pieces, which they have practiced for six or eight weeks beforehand; and the enthusiasm of the bandmen is such that they sing their hearts out, and sing to the accompaniment of their own music.

TWO AGED HUNTERS TAKE JUT LICENSES

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Two men who are believed to be the oldest hunters in the state, have taken out hunting licenses at the office of City Clerk Taylor here. They are James Nicholas Vann of Mount Hope, 103 years of age, and Theron Hill of Pine Bush, who is 82.

Wealthy Men in Poorhouses

LONDON.—We have often been told that the idea of going into a workhouse is so repugnant to poor people that they prefer to eke out a miserable existence, in squalor and misery, on a few shillings a week, rather than spend their days in a place where they are at least assured of a comfortable bed, enough to eat, and clean clothing.

And yet there are folk possessing savings amounting to between £100 and £200, who have preferred to live in the "house" rather than in a home of their own. For what reason, whether for miserly motives or because the like the comforts of workhouse life, it is impossible to say; but the fact remains, according to a recent report of the Bethnal Green Board of Guardians, that a number of people with money preferred the "house" to liberty.

It was discovered, for instance, that the wife of a glassblower had a banking account of £128, £100 of which was subsequently awarded to the guardians and the balance to the husband.

A SOLDIER'S CHOICE.

Another case was that of an inmate of seventy-five, formerly a soldier in the American Civil War—who was found to be the owner of an army pension from the American government of £30, £149 in a building society, and £20 in Turkish bonds. Of this the guardians exacted 30s. weekly, for the cost of maintenance, and the balance was handed over to the relatives at the old man's death.

Another case was that of a fish-stall holder of sixty-one, who was admitted on account of destitution, and was found to have £41 in a penny bank.

"PAUPER" WHO OWNED A HOUSE.

That the "house" is popular with a number of elderly folk, who, did they desire it, could live in comfort in homes of their own, is borne out by several striking cases. An old lady of sixty-eight was admitted into the workhouse in July, 1905, with £23 7s. 6d. in the post-office bank and £185 invested in government stock (three per cent. loan). She also owned a house at Greenwich let at 11s. per week.

"Mr. G—," says the report, "has remained in the 'house' since her admission, and declines to leave. She is allowed 2s. a week pocket money and is a member of a local circulating library. She wears her jewelry, which is exceedingly good, and appears perfectly happy." Apparently there is no accounting for tastes of this kind.

SIAM'S NEW KING
AN OXFORD MAN

CHOWFA MAHA VAJIVADH, new king of Siam.

BANGKOK, Siam, Oct. 29.—The new King of Siam is 24 years of age, with an education at Oxford and several years of globe trotting to his credit, and is well fitted to carry on the reign of his predecessor. Chulalongkorn Rajavidyalaya—such is his name—was born January 1, 1886, and was crowned crown prince January 17, 1905. He visited the United States in 1902. His father, the late King Chulalongkorn, has suffered for some years with nephritis and died in a very short time upon his setting in of uric acid poisoning. He has been ruler of Siam since October 11, 1908.

POLICE IN REVIEW
MAKE EXCELLENT
APPEARANCE

New Chief of San Francisco Department Holds the First Annual Inspection.

PARADE IS WITNESSED BY IMMENSE THROG

Every Available Man in Line and Military Band Heads Command.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The annual review of the police department and inspection by the Board of Police Commissioners took place this morning on Van Ness avenue between Fulton and Fell streets. Every man in the department who could be spared from duty was in line in his full dress uniform.

Although the morning was murky, fully two thousand persons gathered on the grandstand and along the curbs to watch the maneuvers. Among those in the stands were Mayor McArthur and Police Commissioners Spill, Sullivan, O'Connell and Heidegger, representatives of the grand jury, supervisors and the Board of Public Works.

Colonel Lundeen, post commander of the Presidio, and Major-General Tasker H. Bliss also occupied seats in the grandstand as specially invited guests.

A military band paraded at the head of the column of nine companies. While no prizes were awarded, the general opinion expressed in applause, favored company A, under Captain Harry O'Day, and company F, under Captain Anderson.

MOUNTED SQUAD CHEERED.

The mounted squad under Sergeant Patrick McGee, making a fine appearance, won cheer after cheer. The mounted men were drawn mainly from the Mission and the Park stations.

Chief of Police Semmear conducted the inspection, with the assistance of Sergeant-Major Morris, Adjutant Jos. Kelly of the Harbor district, and President of the Police Commissioners Walter E. O'Connell.

For two months Detective Andrew Gaughan, during which he has been putting the members of his department through their paces in preparation for today.

"We feel well satisfied with the inspection and review," said Chief Semmear. "It was the first time I have had an opportunity to see the entire force together since I left the department several months ago. I must say that it has improved in many ways since then."

This afternoon, after the review was ended, Chief Semmear, in company with the commissioners, visited every station house in the city, on an inspection of quarters, stables, and appointments. Late in the afternoon the entire party, at the Hall of Justice, examined the city prison.

MASHER DESERVED BLOW.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Charles Steele, a coate worker, appeared before Judge Conant today on a charge of battery. It developed in court that Steele had been arrested by mistake because he had struck a man at the Ferry building Friday night in defense of his wife who had been insulted by a stranger. The case was dismissed. The complaining witness failed to appear in court. Judge Conant expressed a regret that Steele had not struck the man a harder blow.

Internecine Feud With Macedonian Bands Breaks Out Afresh.

(By WILLIAM T. STAD) LONDON Oct. 29.—(Considerable uneasiness prevails in well informed circles as to the possible outbreak of war in the near future. There are many ominous symptoms of danger, each perhaps insignificant in itself but in their totality they are causing reasonable statesmen to look anxiously to the disposition of their fleets and make inquiries as to whether their arsenals of powder are adequate.

OLD FRIENDS

The old internecine feud between the Turkish and Macedonian bands is breaking out afresh. There is a pall of gloom over the Balkans in Constantinople but neither the Turkish nor the Macedonian is in the hands of men who are determined to uphold the status quo. The Turkish and Macedonian are both determined to break out of the old Turkish and Macedonian status quo.

PANIC FOLLOWS BIG BANK FAILURES IN SHANGHAI

300,000 Men May Be Thrown Out of Work As Result of Crisis.

PRINCE REGENT ASKED FOR AID AND MILLIONS

Change of Taxis Said to Be Responsible for the Situation.

VANCOUVER B. C., Oct. 29.—Seven banks in Shanghai, including several large ones, have failed, and a financial panic has resulted. The steamship Titan, which brought this news, left Yokohama October 15. Following the failure of the banks, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce telegraphed to the Prince Regent that unless aid were given at once many manufacturers would cease operations and more than 300,000 men would be made idle. The Prince Regent telegraphed 700,000 taels, and is being urged to send five million dollars more.

BIG BANKS GO.

One of the closed banks has liabilities of 20,000,000 taels and has 22 branches throughout the empire. It has on deposit 4,000,000 dollars of customs revenue and 2,000,000 of Shanghai funds, none of which is secured. Japanese bankers state that among the failed banks are three of China's largest. The panic is said to have resulted from a change of taxis. The former one was removed for irregular practices and his successor suddenly called for the state deposits in the principal banks, precipitating demands which resulted in the banks closing. A short time ago a panic was averted by the foreign banks assisting the Chinese institutions which had lost heavily by reason of the collapse of the rubber boom.

The panic will be seriously felt throughout the Orient.

BOGUS MORTGAGE USER CONVICTED

Realty Broker Convicted of Fraud Through Testimony of Own Witness.

J. C. Henninger, the real estate broker, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Foster's department of the Superior Court of obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with a real estate transaction. This was his second trial, the first one having occurred several months ago, and having been interrupted as it was drawing to a close by the serious illness of a juror, which necessitated its abandonment. The complaining witness in the case was Domènica Lavagetta, who was defrauded by Henninger by means of a bogus mortgage. He sold her property before she discovered his double dealing.

Just before Judge Foster opened the case to the jury yesterday afternoon the defense put a witness in the stand in rebuttal and unwittingly made him an excellent witness for the prosecution when it was sought to assuage the character of Mrs. Lavagetta. "That is the general reputation of Mrs. Lavagetta," counsel for Henninger asked. "It is bad," replied the witness. "Tell the jury upon what ground you base that statement," said the attorney. "Well, for one thing," answered the witness, "Mrs. Lavagetta was altogether too friendly with Henninger for her own good."

The agility with which the defense dismissed the witness furnished much amusement to those present. Sentence will be imposed Wednesday morning.

ORDER OF MOOSE INSTALLED HERE

Oakland May Be the Western Headquarters of New Lodge.

It is probable that this city will be made the Pacific coast headquarters for another large fraternal organization if the plans of the lodge officers of the Local Order of the Moose are carried into effect. Two of the prominent officials of the organization, B. B. Bloom, a member of the Supreme Grand Lodge, and L. V. Kennedy, past dictator, have announced that they will in the future reside in Oakland and unless something unforeseen develops they will try to have this city made the center of the order in the West.

The order has at present more than 250,000 members and is growing rapidly. Bloom and Kennedy, who are national organizers, came here for the purpose of installing a new lodge. The Oakland lodge was instituted on Thursday night at Loring Hall with 154 charter members. The new lodge elected the following officers: Grand dictator, B. B. Bloom; dictator, L. W. Kennedy; vice dictator, F. Bilger; prolator, E. Norman; secretary, J. J. Hamilton; treasurer, Daniel Read; sergeant-at-arms, H. E. Bush; inner guard, S. K. Wollerton; sentinel, R. E. Wilkinson; trustee, A. B. Johnson; John W. Mitchell and C. A. Lodge.

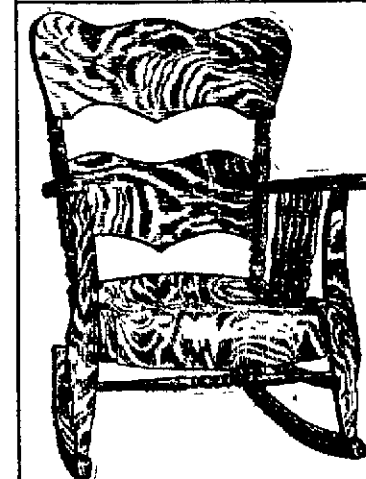

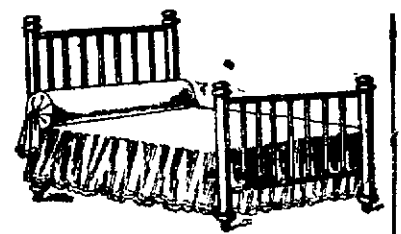

The new lodge will meet every Thursday evening at Loring Hall. POSTOFFICE IS LOST. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—The postal authorities received word this morning that the postoffice at Laton, Cal., was broken into last night and the safe blown open and robbed. About $280 in stamps and $300 in gold was taken. Inspector Hull assigned Inspector Webster to attend to the case and to report to him.

TAMPERED WITH LABELS ON SYRUP, IS CHARGE

Gordon Company, of This City, Under Indictment, Accused of Sending Out Goods to Mislead Public

Under indictment by the federal grand jury the Gordon Syrup Company of this city is charged with having flagrantly violated the pure food and drugs act for many months past and having knowingly sold large quantities of its products throughout the State. It is claimed that besides having adulterated the goods, the company also mislabeled them both as being in direct violation of the federal laws.

The specific charges against the company is that it shipped forty cases of Rosebud Syrup to Phoenix, Arizona, February 11 labeling them in such a way as to be false and misleading. Besides this it is expected that a number of other indictments will be returned against the firm by the grand jury, which is now in session in San Francisco, paying particular attention to such violations.

District Attorney Black declares that the indictments returned to date, which include also a number of San Francisco firms, are but the beginning of a diligent probe into similar violations.

Those arraigned before Judge Van Fleet in San Francisco yesterday morning and the counts returned against them were as follows:

Gordon Syrup Company, Louis Packing Company, 950 Montgomery street, two counts for putting acetate acid in vinegar and glucose in syrup. California Fruit Canning Co., four counts for adulterating their products. Scholinger and Bender, two counts for coloring brandy artificially. D. Ghislalet for mislabeling products and Fletcherman-Clark Company mislabeling products.

There is a large investigation department in the United States which declares that the violations have been the most flagrant they have had to deal with for some time and that the offenders will be severely dealt with if convicted.

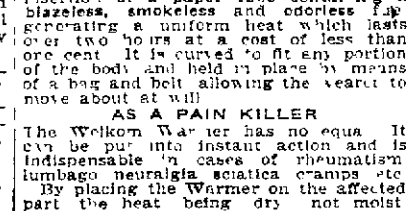

YOUTHFUL TWO-TERMER AGAIN GOES TO PRISON

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—Louis Delmar, an ex-convict, who although but 24 years old has experienced the discipline at both Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries for grand larceny.

Delmar was roundly scolded by Superior Judge Duane who said he did not think there was much hope for one who would commit crime three times. He was given five years in San Quentin prison.

Abraham Lapidus accused of burglary, was admitted to probation by Judge Duane this morning on the showing being made that the charge against him was his first offense.

SIMPLY LIGHT AND INSERT TUBE

The Welkom Warmer
Size 2 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches weight 4 1/2 ounces. It is a simple, efficient and portable substitute for the antiquated Hot Water Bag.
No water to heat—no rubber to rot. Will last for years.
The Warmer is made of metal heated within one minute by the lighting and insertion of a paper tube containing a mixture of chemicals and odorless, generating a uniform heat which lasts over two hours at a cost of less than one cent. It is curved to fit any portion of the body and held in place by means of a bag and belt allowing the wearer to move about at will.
AS A PAIN KILLER
The Welkom Warmer has no equal. It can be put into instant action and is indispensable in case of rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia, sciatica, cramps, etc.
By placing the Warmer on the affected part the heat being dry, not moist, bakes out the cold. Physicians say that the moist heat of the hot water bag will not cure but aggravate the ailment's cause mentioned.
Many have been cured—not a single complaint.
Complete outfit including Warmer, bag, belt and 10 tubes of fuel sent prepaid to any part of the U. S. upon receipt of $1.00.

PLAN TO COMBINE HAWLEY SYSTEMS

Important Changes Announced in Management of Railroads.

(CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—An important change in the management and organization of the Western Railway roads is scheduled to become effective on November 1. The Minneapolis and St. Louis and Iowa Central roads, which for the last year have been operated in connection with the Chicago & Alton and Toledo St. Louis & Western (Clover Leaf) practically as one system and with one set of general offices are to be separated as far as the operating offices are concerned.

G. B. Elrod, general manager of the two northern lines of the system, will become vice-president and general manager, with offices at Minneapolis, and George H. Rose, who has been vice-president of all four lines will occupy that position for only the Alton and "Clover Leaf."

"The financial control of the four roads is the same as it has been for several years, and T. E. Shontz will continue as president and Edwin Hawley, chairman of the board of the four companies."

Talks on Teeth

—BY—
Rex Dental Co.
(Incorporated).
It Conceals
the Artificial

Are you contemplating having Dental Work done? If so, then we want to give you a few facts for you to ponder over.

Why has our business grown from one office to six of the largest offices in the State, covering the following cities: Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento, Fresno, Oakland and San Diego. These offices do the largest dental business in the world.

This growth did not happen by accident. Surely not. Success in any line must have for its foundation merit and satisfaction. If the people whom we have served were not pleased, we could not go on increasing our business month by month, could we? Is there any better argument for our success than these pointed facts?

Success in this line means merit, and in order that our work should have merit, we must have ability to make our claims good.

Ability, too, means that we must have competent men, who must be taught this method from the beginning up; consequently our staff of operators is composed of men each one of whom is a specialist in his own line. You can at this office and an examination is made and advice given; then you are placed in the hands of a specialist in that line, so that the results produced are the best that human ingenuity and skill can devise.

Now, what will the Alveolar Method do for you? It will, if you have two or more teeth, give you back all the teeth that you have lost, in a manner that is natural looking, pleasing to the eye, serviceable in wear, and unequaled in mastication. After your case is dismissed, we say to you, "Eat anything in the food line you wish, with comfort, and if you eat, some back and tell us why." A remedy is awaiting such cases, for the work, being built on scientific lines, must produce the results claimed for it.

Think for a moment what a relief it would be to you to throw away your old plate that has been like a board in your mouth, and have it replaced by work that only occupies the same space and space that you have lost. It did work that you don't have to take out after each meal, but can cleanse as you would your natural teeth.

Possibly your neighbor would not recognize you if you had this work. Why? Because you would look natural. This work conceals the artificial.

Maybe you are one of those who are going teeth, simply because they are loose, and possibly each month one more goes, and you are soon confronted with the fact that you have no teeth left. Then you begin to look for a substitute. The Alveolar Method fills the bill.

You have been told that there is no time trying to save your teeth, that in time you must lose them all. If your doctor came to your house and told you there was no help for you, and you were no sicker than your mouth, you would think him crazy, wouldn't you? Well, we think you are crazy to lose these teeth.

Remember there is a definite cause for the existence of pyorrhea (loose teeth), and it takes a specialist to remove that cause. In each of our offices there is a pyorrhea specialist who devotes his time to the treatment of pyorrhea, and he cures it to stay cured. Is this good news to you who are losing your teeth?

A word of caution. Don't be misled by the unscrupulous who claim to do this wonderful work, but simply remember that nothing was ever devised for the benefit of humanity that some one did not offer you something which was claimed to be as good. Did you ever compare these articles? If you have, think of what the original will mean to you.

A book giving you a detailed outline of our method will be sent you, free of charge. Send for it; it gives you the information that you want.

PERSONAL QUARREL

BEHIND REVOLT

IN MONACO

M. Marquet Launches Revolution to Satisfy His Ambitions.

WOULD BE DIRECTOR OF GAMBLING HALLS

Turned Down by Prince and Officials. He Used His Money.

(By VANCE THOMPSON.)

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The revolution in Portugal is an established fact, but Europe is still asking why the peaceful little principality of Monaco should have run up the red flag of revolt. The inhabitants of this "white paradise by the sea" number about fifteen thousand souls. They pay absolutely no taxes and their livelihood is practically assured by the proceeds of the casino.

True, they are not allowed to gamble, but then it must be gratifying to them to know that they are better off than the thousands of poor devils who blow out their brains every season in or about the gambling rooms. In all Europe there is no more prosperous nor thriving people than the Monacans.

PRINCE EASY GOING.

Their prince is an easy going man who spends his time climbing mountains or delving into the sea. He was never known to refuse his subjects anything and this is why the sudden uprising of Monaco is still a matter of conjecture and surprise among the European nations. The real facts which I can now give for the first time, of the case, are these:

BUYS CASINO STOCK.

A certain Monsieur Marquet recently bought one million francs worth of the casino stock, the Monte Carlo gambling palace. Marquet is a speculator who is well known as a director of the Grand Casino as well as being interested in the casino at Brighton and many other European gambling resorts. He is a very rich man and likewise very ambitious. His idea in buying the casino stock was the hope of being elected one of the directors. Holding such a large amount of stock he thought was sufficient guarantee to secure him a seat in the board of directors and all that was necessary for him to do was to apply to M. Camille Blanc.

But Blanc assured him that there was "nothing doing" and referred him to the prince. Nothing daunted, M. Marquet applied personally to the prince, who seemed embarrassed and who in his turn referred him to Admiral D'Hautefeuille, took up the matter, investigated it and gave in a report about to give a most unfavorable report when M. Marquet got wind of it and offered him 300,000 francs to "change his mind."

DECLINES BRIBE.

This the governor, a very honorable man absolutely declined to do. He refused the tempting bribe with disdain and then M. Marquet, out of revenge, gathered together all the riff raff of the town, paid them well and set about raising a revolt, with the purpose of forcing the governor to resign. The revolution was organized solely by Marquet and launched with his money.

The result, as everyone knows, was that the Monacans got their constitution, not that they particularly wanted a constitution, but that Marquet wanted to crush D' d'Hautefeuille and force himself into a seat on the board of directors of the casino. The consequence of this maneuver, however, still remains to be seen. It only goes to show how a small personal grudge, backed by sufficient capital, can topple over governments and how the Marquets of the world gain their ends.

STRAUS SEEKS

TO LEAVE POST

En bassador to Turkey Tired of the Diplomatic Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—Oscar S. Straus of New York, Ambassador to Turkey, has informally submitted his resignation to President Taft. Straus has been American diplomatic representative at Constantinople since May 17, 1909. He is tired of the diplomatic service. It is said and wishes to resume his residence in this country. Straus is now in the United States on a leave of absence. President Taft and Secretary Knox have not accepted Straus' resignation, and it is being held in abeyance.

The diplomatic post at Constantinople is important at the present time, notably on account of the fact that an application for a $50,000,000 railroad project in Asia Minor has been filed by the Ottoman American Development Company, an American concern.

The granting of the concession was opposed by the German Ambassador at Constantinople on the ground that the proposed railroad would injure the German railroad enterprises in that region. Both the president and Knox are anxious to retain Straus in the diplomatic service, and may persuade him to remain in his present post.

GEORGE GOULD TO LIVE

IN SCOTT'S OLD HOME

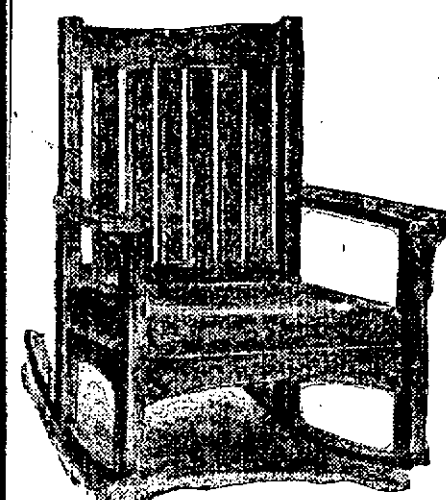

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Another and still more famous house will soon be occupied by an American when George Gould takes possession of Abbotsford, Sir Walter Scott's historic home near Melrose, Scotland. Gould is expected there before Christmas, but he will not of course be allowed to touch anything in the old house, as he has only taken it on lease from Mrs. Maxwell Scott, a descendant of the novelist. The house is filled with old pictures, manuscripts, china and Scott relics. It is stated by friends that the George Goulds intend to spend the whole of next season in Great Britain and that in future they will spend at least half the year on this side.

The Treatment of Immigrant Women Severely Censured In Lecture.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—A vigorous attack upon conditions in Chicago that have resulted in maltreatment of immigrants and a severe arraignment of the police were features of an address made last night by Prof. Graham Taylor of this city before members of the "Congregational Brotherhood of Chicago."

According to Prof. Taylor, the "quelling and hauling of immigrants by expressmen at the Dearborn-street station is one of 'Chicago's' shames." Women immigrants, he said, are made easy prey for agents of disorderly places and statistics that have been compiled, he declared, show that in some instances only one-half of the women immigrants who leave Ellis Island, New York, for Chicago, reach their destination in this city.

In illustrating this point, he asserted that "white save" emissaries board immigrant trains at points many miles from the city and by various devices lure the unsuspecting women into their clutches.

Costly Residences Follow Conversion of Oakland's Foothills Into Homesites

FOOTHILL SETTLEMENTS ARE GROWING Apace IN THE REAR OF OAKLAND

Costly Homes Being Built on Attractive Suburban Sites Within Easy Reach of the Business Quarter

Within the past few years a number of high-class settlements have sprung into existence in the foothill districts of Oakland, through the subdivision of what was previously unutilized and unoccupied territory, terracing the land, laying out modern streets and sidewalks on easy gradients, providing them with thorough sewer systems, water and gas mains and complete electric lighting service. These uplands have commanding views of the east bay cities and the bay in front of them and of the magnificent mountain range rising majestically in their rear.

A Long Chain of Superb Settlements

These new settlements extend in an unbroken chain from Berkeley to Fruitvale. They quickly attracted the attention of home-seekers, particularly new-comers to Oakland from other sections of the State and from other States, and, as a result, modern residences of great beauty, and many of them of a very costly character have been erected and lot the foothill landscape all along the base of the flank of the range. Every one of these has been tenanted by the owners as soon as completed, and the surrounding grounds in every instance have been promptly improved. These new homes are models of comfort to their owners, who are all persons of easy circumstances and many of them in affluent condition, and they are visions of beauty to the beholder.

Metropolitan Comforts and Conveniences

The dwellers in these new tracts enjoy all the comforts and conveniences of metropolitan life and all of the transportation facilities of the great and growing city, the bustling heart of which lies close to their homes, and yet they possess at the same time the peaceful, quiet and restful and privacy which suburban residence affords.

Rapid Growth of Foothill Settlements

The rapid growth of the foothill settlements, all of which possess an ideal climate, has been one of the features of Oakland's marvelous expansion during the last three or four years. Some of them are of very recent origin, but they are filling up amazingly fast with beautiful dwellings and the best class of citizenship. They have been given distinctive names suggestive of their character, among them Claremont, Rock Ridge Park and Place, East Piedmont Heights, Piedmont Terrace by the Lake and Fourth Avenue Terrace. In nearly every instance the character and value of the improvement have been made conditions of the deeds, so that what they are today cannot be changed or the worse, and they are safe from undesirable encroachments.

Costly Character of Improvements

Indeed, in most cases the value of the improvements made by buyers have greatly exceeded the limitations placed upon them, and the later buyers are in many instances planning the construction of buildings of the most costly character, which will make them more impressive as private parks, and show places in the future than they are at present. The following is some of the types of residences, for example, that will soon be built by recent buyers in Rock Ridge:

C. B. Wells, formerly of Honolulu, at the corner of Ocean View Drive and West View Drive; $40,000.

Mrs. Louise Felsen, for herself or Modesto, on Prospect avenue; $12,000.

J. C. Bullock of West Oakland, on Ocean View Drive; $12,000.

Mrs. Anna M. Bluet of Oakland, Rock Ridge Boulevard and Park Place, $8,000.

Charles H. Manning, on Rock Ridge Boulevard, $7,500, and another for $5,500.

F. E. Ferris, on the corner of Ocean View Drive and Bellevue Terrace; $15,000.

It is safe to say that in the subdivision and improvement of these foothill tracts and in the construction of the residences and the improvement of the grounds surrounding them, many hundreds of thousands and possibly several millions of dollars have already been expended, and the near future is sure to witness a still larger outlay of money by the class of people that are being attracted to them as ideal homesites, be cause, while possessing all the charms of country retreats they are likewise close to the very heart of the city and within easy reach of it.

PRETTY HOMES BEING ERECTED

October Proving a Banner
Month in Rock Ridge Trading.

October is proving a banner month for Rock Ridge. So far the total sales for the month have equaled those of August and September together and those who by no means light months. Last Sunday was a record-breaker in number of sales for the beauty of the day brought many people to the property and that is all that is needed to sell Rock Ridge.

A significant fact about the sales in Rock Ridge is that with a number of the buyers are new, a number of them are people who have already bought at least one lot in the property. Every Rock Ridge buyer is satisfied and enthusiastic over his purchase and is he sees his investment increasing in value he wants to buy more of the same property for investment purposes. Many people who have already sold one or more lots at a handsome profit are continuing to buy in Rock Ridge, while others are holding their purchases and adding to them. During the past week J. F. Coughlin, who owns four lots in Rock Ridge, and has built his home there, bought a fifth lot in the terrace. J. H. Demers has purchased his fourth lot in Rock Ridge, while J. M. Coughlin has purchased his fourth lot in Rock Ridge. These are but a few of the lots in Rock Ridge which are being sold. The buyers who are proving their confidence in the property by buying extra lots.

The contract for the paving of Broadway from the Country Club to Ocean View drive has been let by the city council to the Liddle & Higer Company. The double front will put a large force of men to work at once and expects to finish the entire pavement within four months. This means a brand new paved highway from the business center of the city to Rock Ridge.

EARNING POWER OF OAKLAND REALTY

Notable Examples in Central Business District Showing
Frontage Valuations.

While the first part of October was larger in volume of business, owing to the heavy sales in business property, the latter part has been compensated for in the number of smaller holdings sold," said William J. Lawrence of the Lawrence Real Estate Company. "Several large deals are under way and will be reported in the early part of November."

The earning capacity of the ground value in the retail center is typified by the heavy sales in business property, the corner of Fourteenth and Broadway, which was sold by a large time ago to the Security Bank and Trust Company at $2000 per foot. This paid with the old one-story building on it 10 per cent net on this amount. On the northwest corner of Broadway and Twelfth streets the three-story building, three under the sub-lease, will pay 6 per cent on a $12,000 per foot valuation. The corner of Fourteenth and Broadway, which was sold by a large time ago to the Security Bank and Trust Company at $2000 per foot. This paid with the old one-story building on it 10 per cent net on this amount. On the northwest corner of Broadway and Twelfth streets the three-story building, three under the sub-lease, will pay 6 per cent on a $12,000 per foot valuation.

The structural steel frame of the Oakland (bankers) hotel has received the floor of the seventh and has stood during the past week. The granite walls for the facing of the outer walls are also being delivered on the premises and the masonry will soon begin to follow the steel into the air and the big hotel will then take permanent form and devote to the eye the beauty and the sturdiness of the structure.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF STEEL ARRIVES

Realty Syndicate Building to Be Rushed Rapidly to a Completion.

The first load of steel for the Realty Syndicate's new structure arrived today. This marks the beginning of the rapid construction of the 10-story real estate office building, which is to cost between $100,000 and $120,000.

When the building is completed the exterior walls will be a reddish, cream-colored terra cotta, and the construction, although plain, will be exceedingly picturesque and a great credit to the downtown district of Oakland.

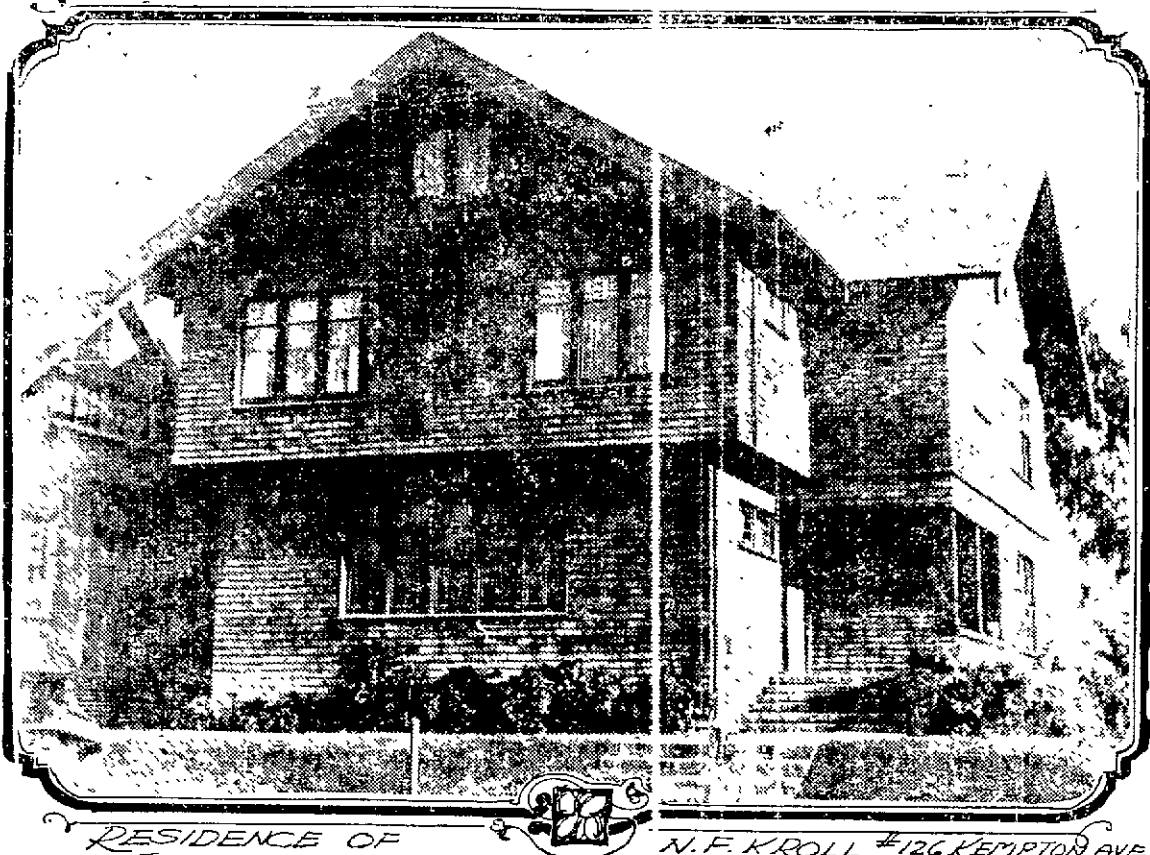

The building when finished, will be occupied by all of the commercial interests in which P. M. S. P. is interested, namely, the Pacific Coast Bank Company, the Tonalup and the Water, Railroad Company, the Oakland Traction Company, the Key Route Railroad Company, the Oceanic Steamship Company and the Realty Syndicate.

The offices of these companies will occupy the six floors of the new building. The other floors will be rented to outside tenants and, judging from the efficiency of the building, they will be in great demand.

Nat M. Cossley, manager of the Realty Syndicate, says the building is to be pushed to completion with all possible speed, as the space was urgently needed by the various enterprises represented by the P. M. S. P. interests.

"We expect to be handicapped somewhat during the next two or three months," said Cossley, "on account of the building operations, but as far as possible we will get the building up as soon as possible. The new building is a great improvement on the old one, and it is a great credit to the downtown district of Oakland."

Colonel Roosevelt has been called on by the city who believes that he is such

LOWER BROADWAY FRONTAGE VALUES

Bank Loan Places a Value of at Least $800 Per Front

One of the highest prices paid during the past week for a lot on Lower Broadway, south of Seventh street, was $800 per front foot. This was for a lot owned by the Bank of America, which is being sold by the city council. The lot is a very attractive one, and it is a great credit to the downtown district of Oakland.

IMPROVING OAKLAND'S PARK LANDS PRODUCING IMPORTANT RESULTS

Great Changes Are Effected Under the Direction of the Park Commission;
Big Realty Benefits Derived

Oakland as a municipal corporation, never invested a dollar to a greater advantage than that invested in its park lands. Every park tract it possesses is demonstrating this fact under the intelligent administration of the Park Commission, for the improvement of these park lands benefits property in the neighborhood for many blocks around. And these parks are so fortunately distributed throughout the city that every section of the latter profits by them and by their improvement. The fact that they are comparatively small areas is proving advantageous to the city at large. The parks develop a city top-sidely. Oakland's small parks are producing the opposite results. Realty adjacent to each one of them, however small the park plot is, has profited by its improvement.

These observations are the conclusions drawn from a flying visit to the parks lying west of Telegraph avenue in company with Park Commissioner Edoff, Park Superintendent Malcolm Lamenda and Secretary Vogt of the Park Commission in the automobile of Superintendent of Police Wilson which was placed at the disposal of the party for official park inspection, the commission not having an auto at its disposal, although the parks are scattered over a territory of thirty-six square miles.

Making Beauty Spots of the Old Parks

The parks visited were Lafayette, Jefferson, De Fremery, Bay View (West Oakland), Bushrod and Mosswood, with a glimpse at some minor park plots on the way in the Watts tract.

Lafayette and Jefferson Parks are squares inherited by the city from early days. But under the old order of park management they were anything but the beauty spots they are today, as the result of the Park Commission's intelligent treatment and competent superintendence. Lafayette Park is the one in which the Chabot Observatory is located. The observatory is, of course, an intruder on the park lands, but it is under the exclusive jurisdiction of the School Department, and by common consent it is tolerated as an institution of public interest and great value from an educational standpoint. The grounds not occupied by the observatory have been brought up to a high state of efficiency, consisting of well-kept lawns and banks of beautiful flowering plants, leading the air with their perfume and gladdening the eye with their brilliant colorings. Its popularity is proved by the crowds that flock to it daily to spend restful hours in the sunshine flooding it and in the enjoyment of its vernal and floral beauties.

Jefferson Square has been treated differently to suit the tastes of the surrounding population and the class of people that visit it to while away the idle hours.

Improvements Made in De Fremery Park

De Fremery Park is one of the larger tracts acquired through the park bonding indebtedness assumed. When it came under the jurisdiction of the city this thickly wooded tract was a wilderness of undergrowth, having been allowed by the former owners to run into a perfectly wild state. Since the Park Commission has obtained control all of the underbrush has been cleared off, leaving the majestic trees only standing, and the land between them is now being prepared so that it may be systematically parked with pleasant lawns. The western section, which was comparatively open, has been utilized as a children's playground, with tennis courts, basketball courts, swings and other playground accessories, and its management transferred to the Playground Commission, the Park Commission, however, retaining jurisdiction over it. Many improvements of this park have been planned. Bids have been invited for the construction of two field buildings, one for boys and the other for girls, in which dressing-rooms, showers and other accessories associated with playgrounds will be provided. Next April the De Fremery home-building will be vacated and it may be utilized by the Park Commission as a shelter for visitors to the park or as a library or museum. The plans for utilizing it are at present indefinite, but it will be turned to a good purpose. Much of the open land has already been sown with grass and beautiful well-kept lawns developed. Plans are also being adopted for a system of electric lighting during the night season.

Mosswood An Ideal Natural Park

But of all the park lands recently acquired by the city Mosswood Park is the most perfect and complete. It is now an ideal park, covered with an almost infinite variety of trees and flowering plants and broad carriage roads winding throughout, which the late J. Mora Moss planted and constructed, while meandering through it is a natural stream of great beauty.

Mosswood Park was bought a few years ago by the Bankers' Trust Company for the city for $85,000 and has since been carried by that corporation in trust. Accumulated interest has since brought the cost of the property to approximately $100,000; but such has been the advance in property values in Oakland since the purchase, and so extensively have private improvements been made in the neighborhood, and so far has the city grown beyond it that the property is today appraised at the lowest valuation, at $150,000. In a few weeks hence it is the intention of the Park Commission to throw this park open to the public.

Public Playground in Bushrod Park

Bushrod Park lies farther north. Portions of this are being laid out in conjunction with the Public School Department, as children's playgrounds. A part of the park has already been so improved and its popularity is shown by the crowds of children which are using it daily. This section is also under the care of the Playgrounds Commission. That part of the tract which is to be parked is now being gradually leveled off for lawns and flower beds. The complete development of this park will take more time than any of the public park lands, but progress will be steady and great changes will be in evidence there, as in other parks, before the close of the fiscal year.

MANY SEEK BID TO CORONATION

Invitation Lists Will Be Ruthlessly Cut Down, Is the Report.

(By CHESTER OVERTON)

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Despite the fact that the coronation invitation lists to state balls and other functions will be ruthlessly cut down and very carefully examined next year, season promises to be a record one judging by inquiries already being made for private house flats, and suites at hotels. There will be an immense number of American and colonial in town next May. At Claridges the Carlton the Fitz and Berkeley hotels the aids, annuals have already booked their rooms and at the less fashionable hotels whole floors have been engaged for June.

QUEEN LIKES HER

Although the queen does not altogether approve of some of the aged dukes, little ways she has long had a great regard for her and there is no doubt that she will be pleased to see her in the coronation. The queen's favorite is the Duke of Devonshire, who is the only person admitted to the presence of Queen Mary since she lost her first husband, Prince George of Teck. The duke, who spent his childhood in Devonshire, is now in his 80th year.

CHICAGO Oct. 29.—Philip Barok, a wealthy Alaskan, has been sentenced to 10 years in the state prison for the robbery of a mail train. The robbery took place in 1928, and the train was carrying $250,000. Barok was one of the men who were involved in the robbery. He was arrested in 1930 and has been in prison ever since.

Friedman's New Cloak and Suit Store

Friedman's Cloak and Suit Company are now housed in their new quarters at 514-518 Twelfth street between Washington and Clay one block east of the Orpheum. Since moving in their new store they are more than gratified at the increase in the volume of their business.

This enterprising firm incorporated five years ago with S. M. Friedman as president and Edgar L. Ormsby secretary and manager. Under the wise and efficient management of Mr. Ormsby the company has been able to expand its business and to provide a wide selection of the latest in fashion.

The trend of traffic steadily drifting west of Broadway and Washington and Twelfth street has been a great asset to the store. The store is now one of the largest and most fashionable in the city. It has a large stock of the latest in fashion, and it is always ready to serve its customers.

A new feature in the store is the addition of a French room in white and gold, and wall coverings of old rose and green shades. This is a display of the latest in French fashion, and it is a great attraction for the customers.

No Relief From the "Regular" Physicians

To the Editor of the Tribune:

I have been suffering from a chronic condition for many years, and I have tried every remedy that has been suggested to me. I have consulted many of the "regular" physicians, but I have not found any relief. I am now in a desperate state of mind, and I am looking for a cure. I have heard of your clinic, and I am interested in it. I am writing to you to see if I can get some help. I am sure that you will be able to help me. I am sure that you will be able to help me.

Chance Has No Place in World; Universe Ruled by Exact Laws.

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

As we go to press, to use the language of the country paper, Italy's comet is bowling along away from us faster than a bullet. It is a year and a half been going the same gait out yonder in the dark somewhere. It has hastened and slowed a little on its way under the influence of nearby planets. Yet it woeled into view on time, to the minute.

That whole mass of words, stars, suns, planets, and comets that streaks the night is all regulated as nicely as a watch. Our own earth, spinning like a wheel around the sun and completing its five or six hundred million miles with absolute precision. There has never been a wobble, wreck, delay, misplaced switch or any such thing.

The under accuracy of the universe is appalling. It is really spooky. In this room several million light waves are shooting about in a confusion worse than a roomful of spider webs. Here are a lot of light waves from the stars of the sky, from the sun, from brown and yellow and red waves in a hundred shades from the carpe and woodwork, green waves from my blotter, white waves from paper and black waves from ink, and so on. And all these waves are going forth as a hundred and forty-four million waves and then some. And it's all done without the shadow of a sound, with no getting tangled, and as perfectly accurate as the steam ground out by an adding machine.

Added to this a few thousand sound waves vibrating through the same space in my chamber. Some one in the apartment below is committing "The Holy City" on the piano, children are crying in the street, a horse trots by thumping the asphalt, some one is rustling a newspaper in the next room, my pen scratches on the paper, the clock ticks, the bathroom cistern creaks, and every one of these sounds is going forth, as a wave in a pool through this room, and each one moves with mathematical certainty, so many waves a second and never misses a beat. And neither light nor sound waves ever get in each other's way.

Nature Works by Rule.

Nature never guesses, slips, stumbles, or misses. She never makes a move that cannot be expressed in algebraic formula. There is no waste, no superfluous, no error. The elements of nature are as accurate as the figures on a true as those of the abacus of a temple. And it is in the grace and accuracy of nature that the matter has all passed, the high chemical formula, into ashes and gases.

Even music can be mathematically expressed. A Mozart sonata is governed absolutely by the law of numbers.

And if all these things, under the rigid rule of exact law, why are not the things of the mind and heart as well governed also by the same exactness? Was it not a good guess of old Epicurus that we have free will, and that we are not as Pythagoras so far astray when he made number the center of philo sophy and theology?

It must be so. Anger, malice, kindness, and love move with the same unerring exactness that prevail in the compounds of sulphur, hydrogen, and oxygen. Nature would not be so careful in low matter and slipshod in her high products of the spirit.

It is no mere list of speech, then, to say, "Be sure your sin will find you out," or "Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap." Also, your goodness will find you out. You live in a world of accurate moral as well as chemical reaction. The ten commandments do not form any more than does the multiplication table.

Once we get this concept deep in our mind, it ought not to alarm us, but to give us a great and unshakable peace. For it gives us the feeling that our destiny is not the plaything of chance, but is the result of a precise and intelligent purpose. If nature

The New Grand Army

By HENRY M. HYDE

(Copyright, 1910, by The Tribune Co.)

The gray heroes of the Grand Army have two paramount claims to immortality: they were volunteers, and they fought for the supremacy of a great moral idea.

Other soldiers have been as brave. Physical courage is a quality which the professional fighting man has always known how to command.

Swiss mercenaries who stained the long corridors of the Louvre with their blood made mere bulldog bravery too cheap to serve as a sole basis for enduring fame.

Other armies have made marches as spectacular; have won battles as desperate; have stirred as deeply all the surface emotions which thrill to the glamour and pomp of war.

The Grand Army stands apart, because it fought, not to conquer, but to set free its enemies. It made war only to force the acceptance of a priceless gift.

It was made up of a million elegant spendthrifts, who threw away youth, ambition, and life for a dream. In the full measure of their devotion to an unselfish ideal they won not only an immortal memory but came very near proving the immortality of man.

Today a new Army of volunteers is enlisting to complete the work of national self-conquest which the first Grand Army began. Some of its soldiers stand conspicuous in the public eye. Others, as devoted, make ready for the battle in silence and obscurity.

But all of them are true to the against the same foe. They are against special privilege. Their has learned how to use the na deceive and plunder the people.

These soldiers, too, are volun older legions—is touched with the the ranks of the new army—as in poor men stand side by side.

If Gifford Pinchot, with the command, is still able to give him mous man in the retirement of his also, has done his part.

If Spreckels, with his millions, cific coast, Heney, poor and row felt in his body the actual bulls of the enemy.

If, in New Jersey, Everett Colby gives himself and his money, a hundred poor clerks and workmen have given all that they have to offer. Among the new volunteers, also—as among the old—Democrats and Republicans march in the same file. In the Middle West it is Republicans like Beveridge of Indiana, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Dolliver of Iowa, who are conspicuous.

In Florida and Alabama, Broward and Cromer, Democrats, are in the van; while in Missouri, Folk, Democrat, and Hadley, Republican, are the twin leaders.

One of the tests of the verity of a great moral issue is that it rises its adherents above partisanship.

Men quibble about the names of things only when there is nothing at stake worth fighting for. If Smith and Jones do not mend their ways Brown may get the job—provided he prove a faithful servant—the Republic may be all the better for the change.

Both the elephant and the jackass are amusing beasts in a circus ring, but when danger threatens one does not find fault because the only mount that offers is a horse.

So, all over the country, the lines are forming.

All over the country the leaders are making the issues clear. It remains yet to be seen whether the people have seen the vision; whether, as in the '60s, they will march—under whatever banner—to complete the work of emancipation which their fathers began!

Two Questions of Great Import; What's Your Age and Position?

By MARTIN ARENDS.

How old are you? And what is your position? Around the thirties? And your position—clerk, bookkeeper, or something similar? If this is the case with you, reader, you are in a department that always stirred things up. He'd ask questions. Why was this done in this way? Why didn't we do it an easier and quicker way? Office organization was up to what it is now, and there was a world of room for improvement in everything. At the end of six years this chap had shown that when he went into the office he wasn't content to be a clerk. He was "going up," as it were, and he was bound to do it.

At 10 he was assistant to the purchasing agent, while the other man, the drifter, who let things come as he pleased and didn't exert himself to make them come his way, was sitting on a stool clocking invoices. He stayed there on the stool and he's there yet. It was too late for him to try to make a splash as then. He didn't have the steam. The other fellow had got going. He was moving ahead under a full head of steam. He had made his start before he was 30, and that's why he holds his present position. The drifter was watching it for 40 years. He is the age when a man must be going something for a while if he is to succeed.

His first two years are nothing more or less than cub work. The growing, energetic boy is whipped around to waste no wit to some good in the commercial world. After four years, when he is about 20 or 25, he is old enough to be called a man, and a man's work is what he has got to begin to do. It is in the game now. His first things have been excused in him because of his youth. Now he has got to make good.

About this time, or one or two years later, the average young American of the day is dealing with the most serious fear of his life. He goes and gets married. A year or two later another serious factor enters into his career—the family. He started, and now the man, who was a youth and a boy so recently that it seems to him only yesterday, is a family man with the responsibilities of a husband and father.

Years Pass All Unnoticed.

The years pass. Perhaps with them our man passes from one firm to another. Perhaps he stays with the old one. Perhaps the old ones get out of business or makes change that put him in the street. And because thinking about the wife and the kid and worrying about holding the job that means a living for them all, the man is apt to let the years slide without thinking what they are doing to him.

And what are they doing to him? They are silently and insidiously leading him away from the youth of golden opportunity, gradually stealing away the high hopes and solves of the beginning of a career, insistently dragging him toward middle age. Long before he realized it his youth, which in his dream was to be a full of action, a full of achievements and success, lay slipped and he is losing the center line that separates the live ones from the dead timber. He may wake up, he may be surprised at discovering his danger, but up a sudden furious struggle for preferment that will make up for the years that he has let slide. But the chances are that he won't. The chances are that he will conclude to drift.

Think Before It's Too Late.

Did you ever stop to think it over? If not, and you're under the fatal 30, you'd better begin.

Consider the career of the average boy, you, a man, the average American who, thanks to his stars, has got to work for a living and who makes no effort to time or control his progress.

Records of Two Men.

"I have in my desk the records of two men. One of them is our office manager; the other is being carried along on the auditing department's payroll because it is the policy of the house to refrain from penalizing old employees until they are unable to come down to work. I didn't begin to keep these records until these two fellows were about 30. They had been with us five or six years then. One of them was in the billing department, where he had started. His first job had been that of a common clerk, and at the time I began to keep the records he was a checker, at an advance of $2 in his salary.

Small Merchant Has No "Snap."

By IRWIN ELLIS.

It is comparatively easy for the small country merchant to get in disfavor in his particular community, often through no fault of his own. He finds himself often righteously on the defensive against some of his best customers. In the present time of high prices explanations are demanded of him that he isn't able to clear up, at least to the satisfaction of the aggressive customer.

More than this, in these times of sharp trading in so many sections of the country, the merchant in dealing with the jobber gets a hard knock in unexpected manner. One of these devices of the "crooked" jobber is presented by the salesman stranger who appears with proper credentials from the improper house he represents.

Where Merchant Loses Out.

Later the wisdom of the retailer is proved. He has his contract and returns there certain lines of goods which he has reason to believe were covered to indemnify him. But the "all changed" goods when unpacked are discovered to be far below the quality of the goods of that shipment. But such a merchant can do nothing. His contract has left out the whole question of quality—the emphasis has been on the quantity and the price. The merchant simply is stuck at a high price with a lot of goods of quite inferior worth. He knows this, but he gives way to the temptation to try to save himself by returning to his customers this inferior stock at a saving of cost, at least. And his customers rebel.

Among the small business men, whether in towns, villages, or neighborhoods, and in cities, the small business man has a burden upon him of pleasing which may become a burden indeed. Many of his customers grow to know him by sight and name, and may be ill or Jack-of-john to a whole neighborhood. But whatever the relationship on a personal basis, he has his customer banking upon that relationship to the advantage of every other house in the neighborhood. He may be a grocer and market man. He sells his fruits, vegetables, and kindred daily supplies in order at 8 o'clock, 9 o'clock, or later, as the demands increase from the city center. These everyday supplies are displayed for sale to the best advantage for the early personal shopper. Most of his telephone orders come later in the day, when his scores of personal buyers, going to what they get have handled the stock, more or less.

Advantages of Early Shopping.

Nothing is more simple as a statement of truth, that fruits and vegetables and many other kinds of market supplies cannot be as desirable and fresh and tempting at 4 o'clock in the afternoon as they were at 8 o'clock that morning. Among these are fresh fruits and vegetables, the shop coming in person, has lifted boxes, gauged into them perhaps, peeped into bottom layers and made like inquiries, all to the detriment of perishable goods. And the early shopper, whose telephone at 2 o'clock in the afternoon expect to receive such a note as these which Mrs. Jones, in person, came at 8 o'clock in the morning up with the notion of which caused Mrs. Smith to telephone for the goods? Yet if Mrs. Smith gets a chance in the next few days to get a "jump over the fence" about the matter, she has been impossible for the grocer to prevent.

Occasionally the honest grocer tells Mrs. Smith over the telephone that the goods haven't just the kind and quality of goods that she wants. This is not enough, then, for the reason that Mrs. Smith is expecting a friend or two in to dinner and she has something. The grocer may do his best, choosing for her, and Mrs. Smith be just as disappointed and sore as she can be. She should, emphatically, the grocer, Jones, who walks over to the market early and observes the decencies of shopping in not paying over perishable stuff to the detriment of the shoppers after her. Jones may say that is in the house; that Mrs. Smith's telephone order late in the afternoon takes a distinctly second choice. But you can't get the Smiths to see it that way.

How Some Men Sign Their Name

By GEORGE BANKS.

Occasionally you may receive a letter from the man whose signature at the bottom of the letter seems to have been read by himself if someone else had put it over on him.

He dashes in at the upper left hand corner of the signature place as if he were a scullion, and he writes his name across it. It comes back near the point of beginning, and with a swirl or two completes the second initial, after which he dashes his name in a full and more, window, and he dashes a slash that would save a man's free time than five hapless eighteen inches long.

And when you write to him he says and expressed in your haven't you noticed that in the house; that Mrs. Smith's telephone order late in the afternoon takes a distinctly second choice. But you can't get the Smiths to see it that way.

If all these fail, however, on off the signature from the letter and past it and post it on the address side of the envelope, after which address him in your letter simply as "My Dear Sir"—even if you would like to shoot him.

PHILOSOPHY OF WORK.

CARLYLE.

There is a perennial nobleness, and even of greatness, in work. Were he ever so benighted, forgetful of his high calling, there is always home in a man that actually and earnestly works.

All true labor is sacred. In all true work there is but hand labor, there is something of divineness.

Labor, wide as the earth, has its summit in heaven. The modern majesty consists in work. What a man can do is his greatest ornament, and he always consults his dignity by doing it.

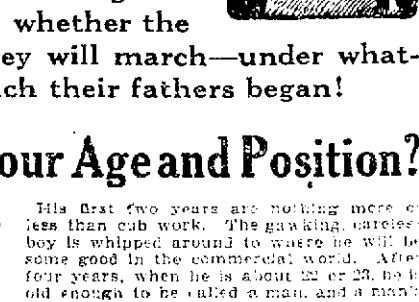

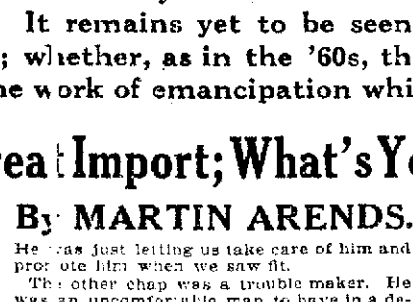

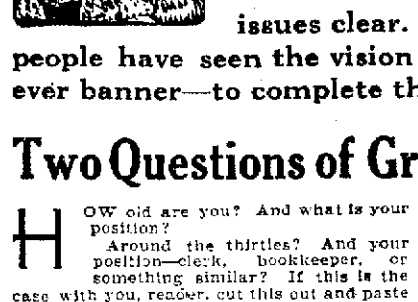

The true epic of our times, not arms and the man, but tools and the man—an infinitely wider kind of epic. Labor is life. Work is alone noble.

Cocoon Palm Most Useful Tree; Every Portion of It Is of Value.

By SCANNELL O'NEILL.

PROBABLY the most useful tree in the world is the cocoon palm. Every portion of which is put to good use. The trunk is used for building houses, for making furniture and for implements, and countless other articles, followed out it makes a canoe. The leaves are used for thatching, the leaf stalks for paddles and fishing lines. The blossom bud makes preserves and pickles, besides serving as a staple vegetable. From the pit of the trunk is derived a kind of tano, and from the flowers, sugar, vinegar, and toddy which after fermentation becomes arrack. The ripe cocoon is a valuable article of diet. The white kernel produces a delicious cream, a good substitute for milk, while the oil is used as a lubricant for soap and candle making. It also is applied to counteract the stings of scorpions.

The refuse of the oil, or off make, is valuable as food for animals and poultry and as fertilizer for the soil. From a shell drinking cups, spoons, lamps, bottles, firewood, and even tooth powder are obtained. Trunk supplies fiber for mattresses and cushions, brushes and mats, ropes, cables, nets, and even the harness for bullocks. The web sustaining the foot stalks is made into strainers and torches. The tree acts as a conductor in protecting houses from lightning.

The interview took place at Yokohama. It was along in the early sixties if my memory isn't failing, that I first encountered these Indians. I was strolling through the north woods one October afternoon, enjoying the solitude, and wondering at the beauty with which nature had painted the leaves. How beautiful the woods in Indian summer!

Smoking and rambling on and on through the dense forest, I came upon a huge tree in the trunk of which was stuck a warning, held in place by a gleaming tomahawk which forbade any one entering their hunting grounds. This aroused my antagonism. I blew a cloud of smoke on the tomahawk and immediately it rusted.

Shortly thereafter the Indian braves came upon the tomahawk. Noticing the rust they set up a hideous howl that arrested my progress. I put my ear to the ground and listened. One said, "We will seek deerskin paleface." Then they held a council of war. There were four redskins in this indignant squad.

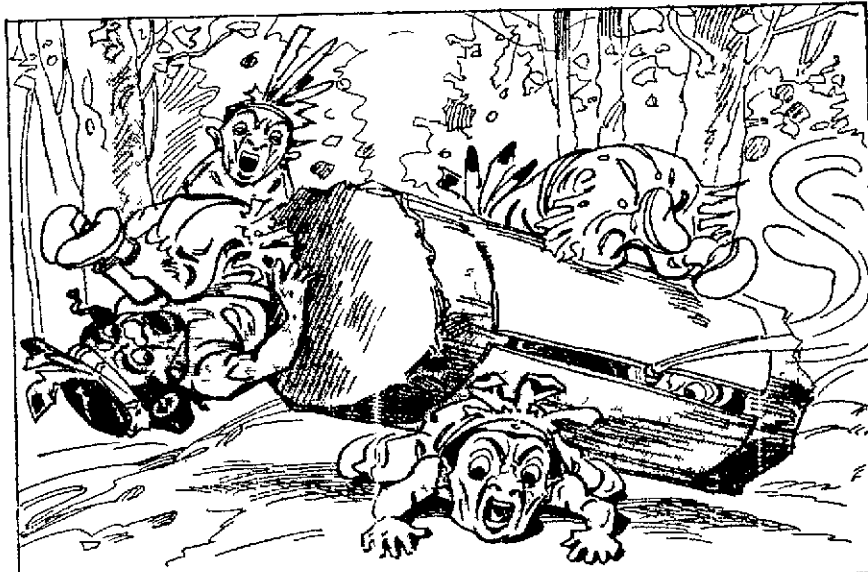

I quickly doubled on my trail and sought the shelter of a big tree. Behind this I stood as the four Indians, their noses to the ground like so many bloodhounds, with guttural chantings followed my trail. They were bloodthirsty wretches, and as they passed I slipped from my hiding place and ran far ahead of them.

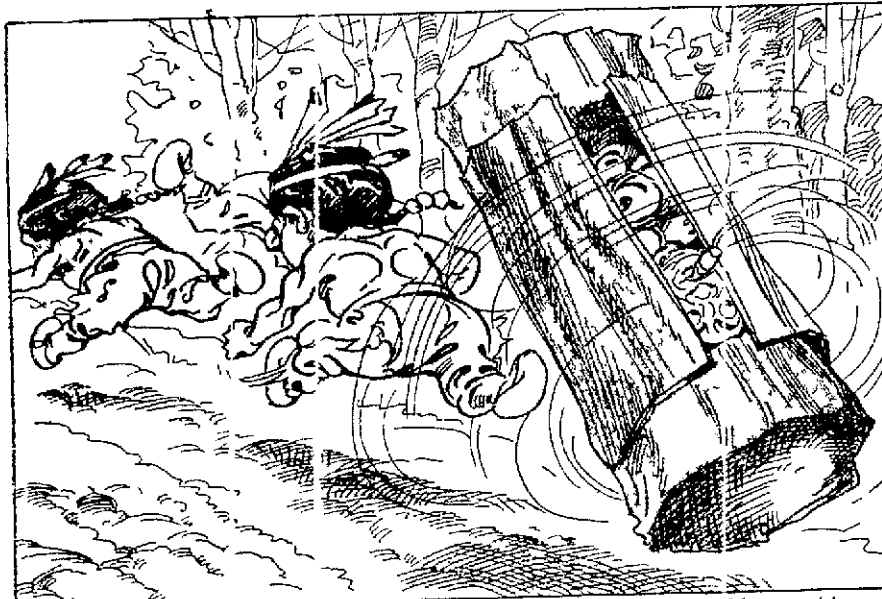

I came upon a tree sitting out in a sort of clearing, and in a moment I had hollowed it out and sat in it. As the Indians came up I cut the tree off below and above me as I sat in the hollow. But why, Uncle Opie, you couldn't possibly —

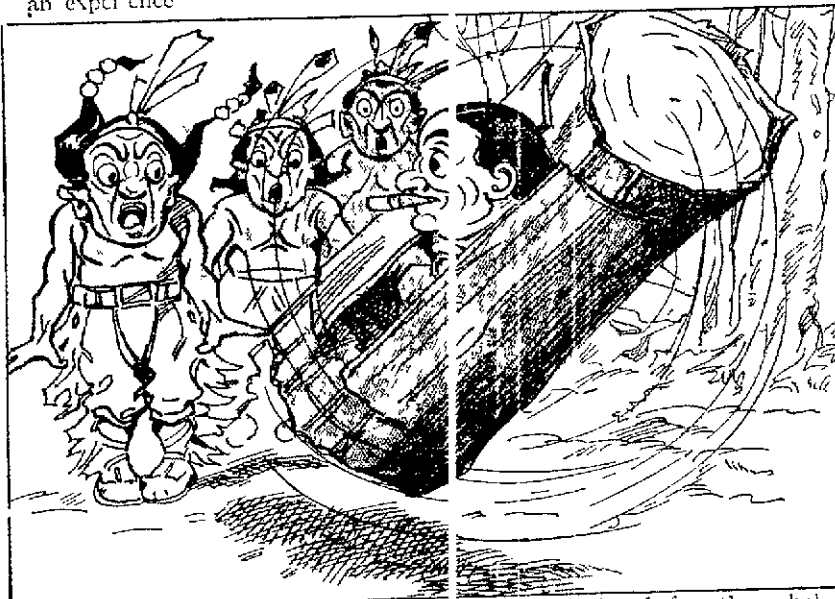

NOTE OPIE—Now, don't interrupt me. But when I'm telling an experience

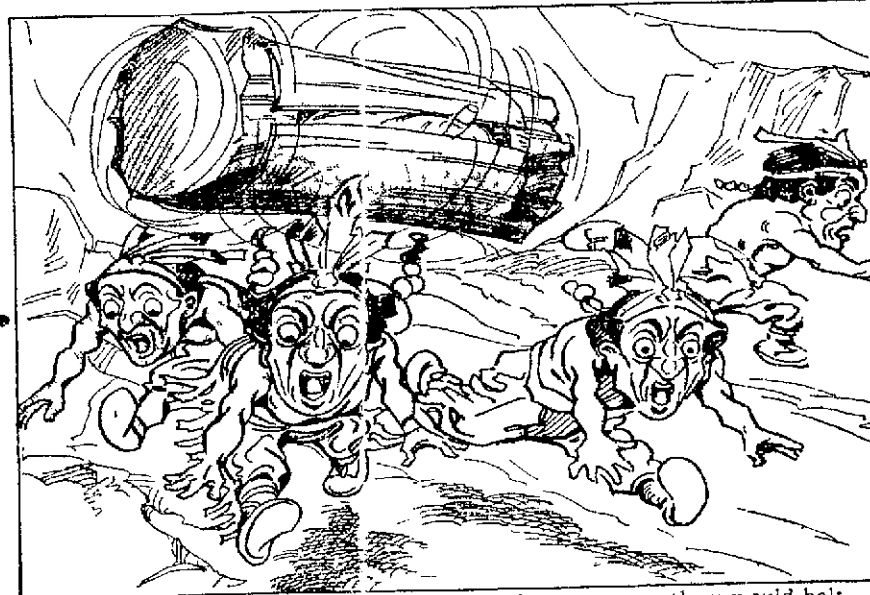

You've seen these little toys that upend themselves by means of a weight in one end and keep on rolling and rolling? Well, that's what this piece of tree trunk was. Only I had a human weight to carry. As the redskins rushed me I upended the box and hurled against them, keeping my eye on them as I knocked them right and left.

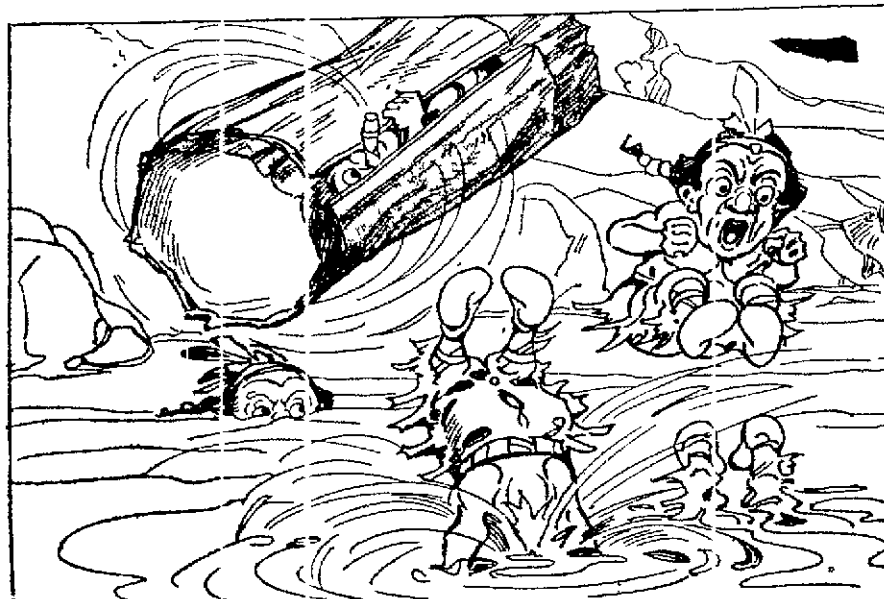

Terror-stricken they rushed away as quickly as they could scramble to their feet, giving yells and shrieks of agony. Turning back and somersaulting in the tree box, I sent it scurrying after them, chasing them thus for three or four hundred miles. I was growing just a trifle tired when I managed to overtake them.

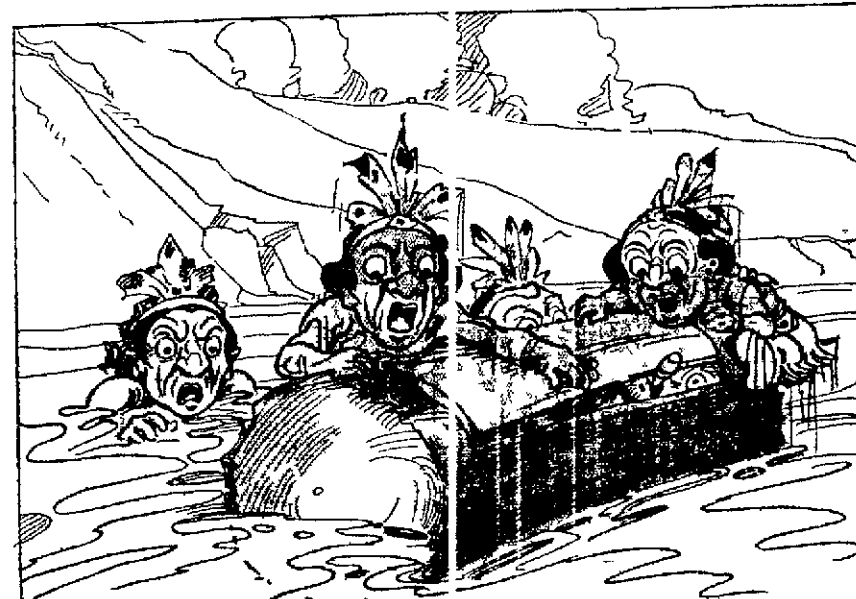

They turned and faced me as I bounced the box before them, balancing it nicely on one end as I slid the little stiffer door aside and peered out at them. They stood so frightened that they could not move a muscle or give utterance to a sound. Finally, however, they turned and ran with great speed down an incline leading to a lake.

Evidently they thought the strange thing pursuing them would halt at the top of the steep hill and give up the chase. For halfway down they halted and looked back. As they did so I closed the door and precipitated the box after them. With renewed yells of terror they sped down the hill, staggering from utter exhaustion.

Reaching the water the loud crashing of my revolving box as it struck the rock, lending to their energy, they plunged in and struck out for the opposite bank. With great bounds my hollowed piece of trunk rushed after them. I struck the water with a resounding crash, throwing it in great sheets high in air. Then I floated quietly.

The Indians, thinking I had abandoned the shell swam for it and scrambled upon it. Then they started drifting downstream while I slowly turned the box until the door panel was uppermost. Thus, of course, I had to do gradually in order not to arouse their suspicion. But I accomplished the feat when we had drifted a hundred miles or so.

I worked rapidly then and soon had succeeded in fastening the fringe of their buckskin trousers in the crack of the tightly wedged door. Then I swam ashore and laughed at them. They fought hard to extricate themselves, but in vain. I heard they were picked up some thousands of miles down stream about twenty years later.

PLAN LAW TO WIPE OUT APACHES

Parisian Authorities at Rope's End in Dealing With Criminals.

Aviation League Pleads for Blazed Trail Which They Can Follow.

(By PAUL VILLIERS)
PARIS, Oct. 29.—The government proposes to secure the passage of a special law to wipe out the plague of criminals sometimes called "Apaches" whose only resemblance to the Apache Indians is that of their name. These are men who laugh at and break all laws and harden their hearts. They are reported by the police to be burglars or pickpockets who carry weapons and use them. Apaches are increasing in number. They are becoming more daring. Hereafter judges have been too easy with the frequently turning them loose. At the same time, the sentences of a New York magistrate to officials on a simple misdemeanor.

The minister of the interior will introduce a new bill to deal with the Apaches. It is a bill that they will think to be a purely legal measure into the breast of a Parisian of shooting him. There before these criminals have on a severe half time when in prison. This will consist of a punishment and hard labor. No appeal will be made to the rule in the new prisons such as that of France. The prisoners are on comfortable. They have a steam bath, electric light and allowed to smoke and eat such punishment as they want out to the rest.

ADVOCATE LASH

Whipping post advocates are in vogue in many and probably could have that way but for M. Barthou minister of justice who is opposed to the lash. Many of the Apaches at times are Americans, four being in the court two days recently. The whip is a more severe punishment than the lash. It is a prolonged period of hard labor will be as efficacious as the whip if no more. The whip is impossible in a country like France, thinks M. Barthou. What a row there would be. The whip would be possible to find Frenchmen willing to undertake the task of flogging a criminal. On a point writer in the Liberte suggests that Barthou should advise to a flogging and was that the whip of justice would be flooded with appeals. It would be a long time before a flogging would be possible. But if a flogging would not have the effect at all, though he promises that it is a method of hard labor will cut down the Apaches and criminals will be left to work the boulevard and even the city streets without. This is the only way to get the Apaches out of the city. The whip would be a long time before a flogging would be possible. LAKE ALBANO SEEN IN ITS BEAUTY

Body of Water Occupies Bottom of Crater of Extinct Volcano.

Here Came Many of Emperors to Rest After Work of Campaigns.

An electric railroad starting from the city of Rome, about an hour's ride, brings the visitor to the site of the ancient city of Tusculum. From the top of a hill, which affords the best view of the lake, the visitor can see the body of water occupying the bottom of the crater of the extinct volcano. The lake is surrounded by a low wall of lava, and the water is a deep blue color. The surrounding country is a beautiful landscape, with rolling hills and valleys. The lake is a popular resort for many of the emperors of Rome, who came here to rest after their campaigns. The ruins of the ancient city are still visible, and the lake is a beautiful sight.

WHITE HOUSE DEBUTANTE
DRIVING WITH HER FATHER.MISS TAFT IN MAY POLE DANCE AT BRYN MAWR.

President's Daughter To Make Her Debut Capital Faces the Gayest Season

WHAT the smart set at Washington have been looking forward to ever since William H. Taft was inaugurated President, it has been announced by good authority, is to take place during the coming social season in this city. Miss Helen Taft, only daughter of the chief executive, who, since her father's taking office has practically adjoined social affairs and devoted herself to study at Bryn Mawr, is to be a White House debutante.

Since the announcement society leaders at the capital think of nothing else, talk of nothing else, but the coming introduction to society of the President's charming daughter. Not a social affair has been organized without due consideration being paid to this important event. Since the debut of Alice Roosevelt social circles have not been so awakened.

While the stir of preparation is at its height at Washington, dinner parties being planned, invitations being issued for elaborate balls to be given in her honor at the respective belle of the White House is resting quietly at her father's summer home at Beverly, Mass., almost indifferent to all the fuss that is being made about her.

"Not even among the friends of the White House," says Helen Taft, "is there a girl."

Not even Alice Roosevelt, who married Nicholas Longworth, was better liked among the young set than is the daughter of the President.

She has several intimate friends from among the smart set of Washington, however.

Sophie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, and Miss Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, are two of the closest friends of Helen Taft. Sophie is a member of the White House social circle, and Miss Mary is a member of the White House social circle. When Man Was a Grinning Ape

Into discussions based on the remnants of prehistoric man the layman, warned by the fact of Abner Dean of England's, will be sure to enter. The divergence of opinion between the discoverers and their colleagues in the audience as to the nature of the remains and their meaning and importance is usually so strong and so philosophical that those who are not anthropologists prefer to be spectators. Witness the conflict over the "Piltdown skull." It is safer to merely record the claims of the men of science and to watch the flight of their imagination.

Fortunes That Grew From Small Beginning

LONDON—It is really remarkable how many of the greatest firms in England today should have been started with very little. Take the case of Cadbury's, a firm which is going to build a new home for itself at a cost of £250,000. Its creator, the late William Cadbury, was a little over 30 years of age when he founded the firm. He started with a capital of £100,000. With this small sum he built up a firm which today is one of the greatest in England.

How Harrod's was started. Harrod's is now owned by a large body of shareholders, but it was started by a single man, John Harrod. He started with a capital of £100,000. With this small sum he built up a firm which today is one of the greatest in England.

Prince George back to court. Prince George, who has been in the United States for some time, is expected to return to the court in London. He has been very popular in the United States, and his return is expected to be a great success.

Kitchen. She can bake pies, make bread and cakes, etc., and is an all around good housekeeper.

If Miss Taft gives the same attention to society that she has given to her studies she will undoubtedly prove a great help to her father as a demure little blue stocking now.

STUDIES WITH WHIM.

She studies with a whim that has kept her averages high all the time she has been a Bryn Mawr.

The President's daughter will, it is believed, make horseback riding more of a fad this coming season than it has been for years.

She is extremely fond of the exercise and gallops every morning that she can find time.

Miss Taft's entry into social affairs at the Capital will be practically her first appearance "officially" at the White House. On one other occasion only has she ever appeared at an important function. That was when the President gave a dinner to a Japanese Prince and Mrs. Taft was unable to preside because of illness. The daughter of the President filled the role of hostess with grace and ease and for the first time in her life wore her hair up.

The debut of Helen Taft is bound to be the biggest social event Washington has witnessed for a long time. Just the date for the "coming out" has not yet been announced.

ROAR OF China's Ducks

Tourists in China are always surprised by the number of ducks they see. There are more ducks in China than in all the rest of the world. Their voices are a familiar sound in every town and country spot of the sea coast and the interior of the vast empire. Even in the large cities ducks abound. They dodge between the coolies' legs. They sit squawking out of the way of the horses. Their indignant quack will not unobserved drown the roar of urban commerce.

Children herd ducks on every road, on every farm, on every river. There is no back yard without its duck house. There is no boat, little or great, without its duck quarters.

All over the land there are great duck hatching establishments, many of them of a capacity large enough to produce 50,000 young ducks every year. Duck among the Chinese is a staple delicacy. It is eaten and smoked like ham or beef.

Testing Thermometers

Clinical thermometers, or the kind used by physicians, are usually sold nowadays with a government guarantee of accuracy. The manufacturers send them to the Bureau of Standards, in Washington, and those which pass examination are certified as O. K. Up to half a dozen years ago such thermometers were frequently "off" as much as half a degree Fahrenheit or even more. Investigation showed that the standard thermometers used by some of the manufacturers were wrong and the manufacturers were told to correct them. This should not happen in the future, the bureau lends its own exact thermometers to the instrument makers.

The bureau tests about 1,000 clinical thermometers every month. The machine used for the purpose being an electrically heated bath, in which a standard thermometer, exactly correct, is immersed, together with a large number of clinical thermometers which are undergoing test. The latter are tested at 95 degrees, 100 degrees, 104 degrees and 108 degrees.
